100 Cities 'Crushed' In Mock Attack

Hypothetical
Hydrogen Fury
Is Unleashed

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Make - believe enemy bombers roaring in across Canada Friday touched off a nationwide practice air raid alert. Before it ended, more than 100 American cities were hypothetically crushed by the awesome force of imaginary nuclear bombs.

The grim coast-to-coast rehearsal for disaster was led by President Eisenhower. With key aides he fled Washington by helicopter only an hour and 13 minutes before a simulated hydrogen bomb hit Union Station, only a few blocks from the nation's Capitol.

The President was whisked to a secret hideaway, there in theory to rally a previously devastated nation.

Fourth Exercise

It was the fourth annual nationwide Civil Defense training exercise.

Although officials hailed it in general terms, it was not an unqualified success.

Albany and Elmira, N. Y., jumped the gun with premature alerts and all-clears.

In New York, many residents lent only halfhearted cooperation to the exercise. Ten pacifists refused to take cover and were arrested and sent to jail for 30 days. They also had refused to take part in the last public alert a year ago.

The first alert was flashed over the national air raid warning system from Colorado Springs, Colo., at 12:01 p.m. EDT. It reported an imaginary flight of enemy bombers believed headed for St. Paul, Minn.

First On Des Moines

However, the first bomb fell in theory on Des Moines, Iowa, and wiped it off the map. It was not until a half hour later that simulated raiders reached St. Paul.

As the Colorado Springs warning hit the coast-to-coast network, New York State Civil Defense Director Clarence Huebner alerted his forces with the clipped declaration:

"This is war."
Although the planes were imaginary.

D'Arbonne Lake Project Survey Almost Complete

RUSTON (Special) — The Bayou D'Arbonne Lake Watershed board of commissioners yesterday reported that surveying of the proposed $3 million lake project in Lincoln and Union parishes was "almost completed."

The announcement came after a meeting here of the commission, Morris Wimbler, Director of the Department of Public Works, and the state engineering staff.

Armand Rabun, board chairman of Farmerville, said last night that it would be "sometime in 1958 before the actual dirt moving operations would begin."

He added that it would probably require from six to eight months to obtain flowage rights in the two-parish area.

Large Acreage

The watershed project will embody some 15 or 20 thousand acres in Lincoln and Union. Reports from the meeting indicated that overall progress is running well ahead of prior anticipation.

Actual leveling and excavation work will be hampered before 1958 due to backwater conditions which exist in parts of the proposed site.

Rabun, one of five members of the board, said that the "capacity of the reservoir would be sufficient to run six tremendous paper mills."

Blame Sabotage In Miss. Blaze

JACKSON, Miss., July 12 (AP)—An explosion and fire today erupted in the furniture finishing section of a woodworking plant and officials labeled it sabotage.

Officials at Mississippi Products Inc. said several acts of sabotage had occurred at the huge plant within the last 30 days. They said most recent was the opening of a valve on a finishing material storage tank which spilled gallons of the flammable liquid into the floor.

Fire Chief L. F. McDonald said firefighters quickly subdued the blaze. There was no estimate of damage but officials said the damaged portion would be inoperative for several days.

DAVE BECK AFTER BOOKING—A smiling Dave Beck (left) walked jauntily with Sheriff Tim McCullough down a county jail corridor at Seattle yesterday after the Teamsters' Union president was booked under a grand jury indictment for alleged personal diversion of $1,900 from the sale of a union-owned automobile. He was released on bail. (AP Wirephoto)

Beck, Son Indicted For Grand Larceny

SEATTLE, July 12 (UP)—Teamsters President Dave Beck and his son, Dave, Jr., were indicted today by King county grand jury on counts of grand larceny.

Beck Sr. was charged on one count of misappropriating $1,900 in union funds. His son was indicted on two counts.

Both Becks were released under $3,000 bond after they appeared at the courthouse voluntarily.

The elder Beck said he was "very much surprised" by the indictment, but "there isn't a chance in the world of any conviction coming out of this."

The grand jury which returned the indictments has been investigating Teamsters Union financial affairs in the Seattle area. The investigation followed recent racketeering committee hearings into activities of the union. Both Beck and his son refused to answer questions of the committee under the Fifth Amendment.

The Teamsters boss today was charged with selling a 1952 Cadillac belonging to the Western Conference of Teamsters and transferring the $1,900 from the sale to the account of a private firm headed by him.

Young Beck's troubles also stemmed from Cadillac sales. The jury accused him of having in his possession on Oct. 8, 1954, a 1951 Cadillac which was the property of the Joint Council of Teamsters, No. 28. The car was sold to John L. Stratton on Oct. 3, 1951, according to the indictment.

In the other count, young Beck was accused of having on Sept. 1, 1954, a 1951 Cadillac which was the property of the Joint Council of Teamsters, No. 28. The car was sold to John L. Stratton on Oct. 3, 1951, according to the indictment.

IN CATAHOULA PARISH

USDA Official Reluctant To Promise Farmers Aid

By RECA JASPER
State Editor

JONESVILLE — A reluctance to promise any aid to the farmers of Catahoula parish, some of whom have had their crops flooded three times this year, marked the theme of a talk by an official of the Department of Agriculture at a meeting yesterday here.

Eugene Bayol, who visited the flood-stricken Catahoula Parish after prompting from Congressman Otto Passman, said in effect that he was fenced in by law and couldn't promise farmers and businessmen here anything. State and parish officials and farmers met at Block High School to discuss the serious situation.

Bayol was asked what aid the more than 1,000 farmers, whose crops have been ruined by floods three times this year, could receive from the government and when. He said he would have to go back to Washington, study the figures given him, and then send

Defense At Clinton Loses On Evidence

Judge Approves
'Inflammable'
Council Charter

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 12 (AP)—Southern defense lawyers fought bitterly today—and lost—in an attempt to block admission of a copy of the Tennessee White Citizens Council charter as evidence in the Clinton segregation trial.

U. S. Dist. Judge Robert L. Taylor admitted the black-bordered document into the record despite shouted defense protests that it was "highly inflammable."

Later, defense attorneys made light of the government's victory, and jocularly compared a White Citizens Council meeting with "a hamburger fry."

Defense attorney Grover S. McLeod of Birmingham, Ala., who let the clamor of protests against admitting the document, told a reporter:

Objects

"I object to the government's inference that it's a crime to belong to a White Citizens Council. Why, I belong to a White Council myself. Thousands of us do."

The allusion to a hamburger fry stemmed from testimony by Clyde King, 28, of Clinton, Tenn., which was the scene of fierce racial tensions late last year.

King said he was a charter member of the council, along with John Kasper, 27, a Northern segregationist leader, Clyde Cook and others. Kasper and Cook are among 16 defendants on trial for criminal contempt, for alleged violations for a federal injunction against interfering with court-ordered integration of Clinton High School.

Asked to identify any other defendants who attended council meetings, King expressed reluctance to swear, under oath, that any of them knew they were at a council gathering.

Hamburger Fry?

"The question is," he said, "was it a White Citizens Council meeting or a hamburger fry? We'd get together and maybe fry hamburgers to eat, and it was hard to tell whether it was a council meeting or just a social affair."

While his bluffing for order to silence spectators' laughter, McLeod arose and addressed the court in a musing voice:

"Please, sir," he told Judge Taylor, "I just don't understand what a hamburger fry has to do with this lawsuit."

Read aloud in the courtroom, the council charter said that, among other things, it was organized to "bring about a change in the status of the Negro."

R. R. Crossing Project Planned On Peach Street

Negotiations have been completed with the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company for the construction of a railroad crossing on Peach Street in Monroe, it was learned yesterday.

A date for the construction has not been approved by Missouri Pacific, W. D. H. Rodriguez, commissioner of streets, said.

Rodriguez said a request was made by the city to gain permission to build the crossing on Peach after several citizens in the area complained that traffic blocked by trains on Apple tied up traffic on Peach.

"Should we build the crossing, I wouldn't call it a major improvement, but at least it would be a help," Rodriguez stated. "What we really need in that area are over-passes."

At City Expense

Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard said the crossing—if it is built—would be done at the expense of the city.

City officials have received comment from the railroad.

Three Negroes Shoot, Rob Man

NEW ORLEANS, July 12 (AP)—Three Negroes jammed their car against another today, shot the driver and escaped with $3,000.

The victim was Salvador Graziano, 45, who was taken to Charity Hospital. Doctors, who treated him for wounds of the right arm and side, described Graziano's condition as satisfactory.

The shooting and robbery took place in the afternoon soon after Graziano withdrew the money from a bank. The money was to be used to meet the payroll at his barroom and liquor store.

Police said witnesses gave them a meager description of the Negroes, who fled in their car.

Ike Signs Bill To Cut Initial FHA Payment

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP)—Legislation permitting lower down payments on FHA-insured homes was signed by President Eisenhower today. But whether the reduced scale will go into effect will not be known until next week.

Eisenhower did not say one way or the other, although he criticized other features of the omnibus housing bill in announcing his approval of the measure as a whole.

Ever since Congress passed the bill on July 1 there has been an argument in administration quarters over whether its lower down payment provision would have an inflationary effect.

Action Next Week

A spokesman for the Federal Housing Administration said today it was indicated that Commissioner Norman P. Mason probably will take advantage of the new authority to reduce down payments. He said no definite action will be taken until next week.

Later in the day, Mason said he has the "responsibility of determining whether lower down payments are in the public interest" at this time. He said he wants "to correct any assumption that he has already made that finding." He said he has not yet done so.

In addition to the lower down payment proviso, the bill authorizes $1,990,000,000 for various housing programs.

Eisenhower said the measure carries out his housing proposals "in the main," but unfortunately, he added, it "also contains a number of very serious defects." He asked Congress to repeal some of these features early next year.

Double Request

He said the $1,990,000,000 in new obligatory authority is more than double the amount he requested and "runs directly counter" to his budget-balancing efforts.

"However," he added in a statement, "these amounts do not have to be made available for obligation."

Actor Blinded Temporarily By Viking's Arrow

DINARD, France, July 12 (UP)—A rubber-tipped arrow that went astray during the filming of a Viking invasion struck actor Tony Curtis in the eye and temporarily blinded him today.

A spokesman for the actor said later he regained his sight in a short time and a specialist said he probably would recover without difficulty.

"He is resting comfortably at the Grand Hotel here," the spokesman said.

The accident occurred on the Brittany beaches outside Dinard where mass invasion scenes were being shot for the movie "The Vikings."

Witnesses said Curtis was watching the scene with co-star Kirk Douglas and never saw the arrow that hit him. He lost sight temporarily in both eyes immediately after he was hit.

A doctor on the scene treated him and sent him to the hotel.

SURPRISE CHOICE

Prince Karim Succeeds Aga Khan In Post

VERSOIX, Switzerland, July 12 (UP)—The late Aga Khan chose his 20-year-old American-educated grandson, Prince Karim, to succeed him as head of the ancient Ismaili Moslem sect and lead it into the atomic age, it was announced today.

The Aga's will skipped over Prince Aly Khan, 46, father of Karim, as well as Aly's half-brother, Prince Sadruddin, 24, and Karim's 18-year-old younger brother, Prince Amyn, in favor of the serious-minded elder grandson who was trained in the duties of Moslem leadership.

The announcement came as a surprise. Most observers had expected that Aly, as the elder son, would succeed to the spiritual and temporal reign over the Ismaili sect, variously estimated to have from ten to 15 million members.

9-FOOT PROJECT

Committee Okays Channel Planning

WASHINGTON, July 12 (Special)—The Senate Appropriations Committee today stamped its approval on a public works appropriations bill containing $150,000 in planning money for a nine-foot channel on the Ouachita and Black rivers in Arkansas and Louisiana.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender of Louisiana, chairman of the public works subcommittee which marked up the bill earlier this week, explained the lack of construction money for the project in the bill by saying they could not use construction money at this time.

Hike Red River Funds

The committee hiked the allocation for Red River levee construction to $750,000 from the house figure of $300,000. However, it ignored requests for planning money for the Overton - Red River waterway. This failure, said

Other Allocations

Other allocations included: Cooper Dam planning, $275,000, and construction, $225,000, for a total of $500,000; Federal Bridge reservoir, $3,294,000; McGee Bend Dam, $500,000 for construction; Deferred Maintenance, $10 million, or double the budget recommendation; flood control emergency work $16 million; Denison Reservoir recreational facilities, $235,000; study funds for White Oak and Cypress Creek project in Texas, $40,000.

In approving figures submitted by the subcommittee, committee members endorsed to a large extent work of Senator Ellender, chairman. The bill reported today by the full committee had been changed in only two minor instances.

Sen. John McClellan, committee chairman, said the bill was passed in a closed session earlier this week.

Sen. John McClellan, committee chairman, said the bill was passed in a closed session earlier this week.

HOUSE VERSION HIKED

Senate Group Approves $62 Million For Rivers

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee today approved $62,400,000 for flood control work along the lower Mississippi River and its tributaries in the year started July 1.

This is $3,350,000 higher than recently voted by the House and compares with last year's appropriation of $9 million dollars.

The increase over the House amount came generally because of higher allowances for various projects included in the lower Mississippi program.

However, the committee did add one project—the Baton Rouge harbor project—in the amount of $500,000. In doing so it said the Baton Rouge Port Authority had formally offered to raise up to $750,000 to be applied for dredging work if the government would put up an equal amount. Army engineers testified, said the committee report, that they could economically use one million dollars on the work this year so a federal appropriation of $500,000 to be $20,000.

Will Decide On Whether Debate Starts

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP)—Southern opponents of the civil rights bill agreed in the Senate today to allow a vote about 6 p.m. Tuesday on a motion to bring the measure to the floor for action.

All signs pointed to adoption of the motion, which would constitute a major, though strictly preliminary, victory for Northern supporters of the bill.

Sen. Russell (D-Ga.), leader of the Southern opposition, conceded he has no hope of preventing the bill from coming before the Senate.

He said his bloc agreed to let the bill come up because it feels there is a good chance of winning changes that will make it more palatable—even though still objectionable to the South.

Unanimous Approval

Unanimous Senate agreement to vote Tuesday came after five days of debate in which the civil rights bill was defended as progressive legislation and denounced as an attempt to return the South to the Reconstruction days that followed the Civil War.

The legislation would set up a civil rights commission to make a two-year study of civil rights problems. It would also create a civil rights division in the Department of Justice and head it up with an assistant attorney general.

A section which Southerners have attacked repeatedly would permit the attorney general to seek federal court injunctions against any violation or threatened violation of voting rights or other civil rights. Violations of these injunctions would be punishable as contempt of court, without jury trials. Southern senators are expected to fight hard for a jury trial amendment.

President Asks $2 Billion Slash In U.S. Spending

WASHINGTON, July 12 (UP)—President Eisenhower has ordered federal agencies to try to trim almost two billion dollars from their original budget requests for the current fiscal year, it was disclosed today.

The directive, which would shave his original $71,800,000,000 spending proposals to about 70 billion dollars, set off a new round in the battle of the budget in Congress.

Speaker Sam Rayburn (Tex.), and other House Democrats, complained that their economy drive earlier this year was resisted by administration officials, who contended no big reductions were possible.

Calls Off Hearings

Chairman Clarence Cannon (D-Mo.) of the House Appropriations Committee, called off further hearings by his group on the few remaining appropriations bills. He told the House "there is no basis on which to make appropriations for the remainder of the year."

Eisenhower's economy order has been going out to government department heads since late in June in the form of a letter from Budget Director Percival F. Brundage.

The agencies were told that Eisenhower wanted spending in fiscal 1958, which began July 1, held "to the extent feasible" or below the spending rate for fiscal 1957. Exact expenditures last year are not known yet but probably totalled about 70 billion dollars.

Audrey caused the waters to again cover the area.
More than 100,000 acres of pasture land has been flooded in the parish, as well as 8,000 acres of cropland, 16,500 acres of oats.

A total of 300 families' farms have been totally submerged and an additional 755 heavily damaged. This has affected the pasturing of more than 10,000 head of sheep and cattle, mostly cattle, and approximately 15,000 hogs.
Aid for wards one and two, the two of the seven wards not now listed as disaster areas, was discussed.

Ike Signs Bill To Cut Initial FHA Payment

The 1958 fiscal year started July 1 and runs until next June 30.
Only "Authorizes"
The bill authorizes, but does not direct, the FHA commissioner to reduce the down payment on the first $10,000 of an FHA-insured mortgage to as low as 3 per cent. An additional 15 per cent would be required for any amount between $10,000 and $16,000, and 30 per cent on any amount above $16,000.

This compares with present requirements of 5 per cent on the first $9,000 and 25 per cent on the rest. Thus, on a $15,000 home for example, the down payment could be cut from $1,500 to $1,950.
President George S. Goodyear of the National Assn. of Home Builders issued a statement last week asking Eisenhower to "direct" FHA to adopt the new terms. He said many thousands of families had been "squeezed" out of the housing market because they could not afford the large down payments under the old law.

The car which Beck Sr. is accused of selling was purchased by Martin Duffy, a specialties distributor and member of the Teamsters. The indictment said Duffy paid for the car with a check made out to the Western Conference of Teachers.

However, testimony was presented that the check was deposited in the bank under the endorsement of the B&B Investment Co., a private concern headed by Beck.

Some of the officials at the meeting included S. J. McCreary, state commissioner of agriculture; William S. Peck, Jr., state representative; E. E. Johnson, Catahoula County Agent; G. D. NEAR RUSTON Contract Plan Told For Part Of Super Road

RUSTON (Special) —The city of Ruston was told yesterday that officials plan to have the portion of the new federal superhighway from a point west of Ruston to a point east of Choudinot under contract by January 1, 1958.
C. F. Meadows, in charge of the project, said yesterday that engineers from the Louisiana Department of Highways and the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads were making a "plan in-hand" inspection of that section from U.S. 167 in Ruston to the intersection of State Route 145 north of Choudinot.
"Our preliminary plans have been completed on the approximately seven and one-half mile section and we propose to complete the final plans after the inspection," Meadows added.
He said that when final plans are completed "we will be in a position to furnish definite right-of-way limits and the detailed intersection details."

Senate To Decide On Civil Rights Bill Debate Tuesday

who want to make speeches on the issue.
The Senate recessed at 6:35 p.m. tonight. Majority Leader Johnson (D-Tex.) announced the Senate would meet at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday to allow all the senators to be heard. Night sessions will also be held if necessary, he said.
Russell said he expects the Senate to begin considering amendments immediately after Tuesday's vote. He anticipated there might be a vote on one or more amendments next week, since he said he expected no "long speeches" by Southerners.
The threat of a Southern filibuster to prevent passage of the bill still existed. Russell said any decision on a filibuster—an effort to talk the bill to death—may be influenced by how far the Senate goes in softening the terms of the legislation.
Russell was the only senator who spoke on the debate limitation agreement. He appealed to all senators to approach the issue as "responsible men" once the bill is before the Senate.
Two Southerners made major speeches against the bill during the day.
Sen. Talmadge (D-Ga.) attacked it on the ground it would set up "tyranny in its rankest form."
He said it would turn the attorney general into a civil rights czar superior to the Constitution and create a civil rights commission with "limitless inquisitorial powers."
Sen. Stennis (D-Miss.) called the bill an evil concoction of some "crafty and designing lawyers" which, he said, contains "at least 10 revolutionary departures from sound and accepted legal principles and procedures."
Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader, moved last Monday to bring the legislation to the floor.
Knowland reported after a White House breakfast with President Eisenhower that the administration still stands behind the civil rights measure as it passed the House June 18.
"Their recommendations are still their recommendations," the GOP leader said. "They have never taken the position, however, that there should not be any clarifying amendments."
Not Waxing
Some Northern Democrats supporting the bill, including Rep. Celler of New York and Sen. McNamara of Michigan, contend that Eisenhower is wavering in his support of the legislation. Asked if this were true, Knowland said:
"No."
Russell is working out a voting agreement with Knowland and Johnson. He told reporters "there is no possibility of a vote on Sen. Knowland's motion before Tuesday. I'd prefer to delay it until Wednesday, or even Thursday."
Almost all the Southern Democrats attended a 45-minute conference.
"We felt we have been fully justified in our debate on the motion to take up," Russell said. "This bill has pursued a very unusual course. There is no committee report on it. We feel justified in putting into the Senate record, at least, an analysis of this bill."
Knowland's motion has been debated in overtime Senate sessions since last Monday. Johnson is reported to believe that when the time for voting comes, the motion will be carried by about a 2-1 ratio.
No Simple Answer
In a renewal of the debate today, Johnson told the Senate that the speeches so far had demonstrated that the civil rights controversy is not one that can be settled by a simple "yes" or "no."

"I believe that most thoughtful men now agree that there are serious issues which must be explored carefully and prudently," he continued.
"There are still those, of course, who believe that the Senate should operate on the basis of 'Get out of town by sundown.' But I doubt whether they will impress the Senate or the great majority of our people."
Knowland has estimated the civil rights fight may keep Congress in session until mid-September. Very little other business will be taken up by the Senate while the debate is in progress. A logjam of other legislation is piling up.
Russell, in another floor speech, contended the bill gives the attorney general far more power to enforce civil rights by injunction than he asked for initially.
He called the measure "an attempt at legislative legerdemain and obfuscation."
Aimed At Dixie
Russell said the broad and punitive powers sought for the attorney general were aimed at 40 million white persons who live in the South. By a series of questions, Sen. Malone (R-Nev.) indicated he agreed with Russell.
Sen. Stennis (D-Miss.) kept the southern attack rolling, saying some "craft and designing lawyer" had drawn a bill which contains "at least 10 revolutionary departures from sound and accepted legal principles and procedures."
"It is my most earnest plea," Stennis said, "the sponsors and supporters of this bill will reconsider this evil compilation of legal tricks and conclude it unworthy of their support. Its dangers are clear and present, and the promised benefits microscopic compared with the evil of warping the due process of law in America."
The Mississippi said the bill would confer on the attorney general power to bring into court all manner of public officials—mayors, election officials, members of school and park and playground boards, county commissioners—who don't perform their duties the way he thinks they should.
"To prosecute these people," Stennis said, "... he the attorney general is given the resources of the government, the ordinary processes of administrative law are suspended and rolled back; the courts of equity are employed to serve a purpose for which they were not intended; a jury trial is dispensed with; the ordinary limitations on punishment are suspended and left to the discretion of the sitting judge."
In a bill of particulars, Stennis said that among other things the bill would:
1. Pit the United States against states in civil cases, against state government units or office holders.
2. Unconstitutionally insure unequal protection of the law by enabling the attorney general to withhold remedies provided by the bill—"socialized law at its worst."
3. Dissipate the strength of the FBI in investigating "groundless, unfounded and hysterical complaints" in civil cases.
4. Seek to "circumvent the fundamental guarantee of a right of trial by jury."
5. Short circuit "the protection inherent in the requirement of unanimity in a jury verdict."

Further praise of the Senator came from Sen. Robert Kerr of Oklahoma, another committee member. He said Ellender, in his opinion, "the most comprehensive understanding of flood control and water conservation of any man in the senate."

member, praised Ellender for his "outstanding job." He said that Louisiana has "a very keen understanding of flood control and navigation projects and is very sympathetic."

A "shopper-park" plan was approved earlier in the week by the downtown retailers and parking lot operators. The City School Board advertised for bids to lease the Central Grammar School campus as a parking lot.

D'Arbonne Lake Project Survey Almost Complete

er mills using daily all the water they needed.
Interest in the project was first stirred by sportsmen of Lincoln and Union. Under a legislative act in 1936, the Department of Public Works is charged with construction work in the project and the commission was created to provide a local "cooperative and coordinating" unit with which the Department of Public Works could deal.
Also serving on the board is Alvin Green, Farmerville; Bill Smith, Dubach; Dr. James H. Henry, Farmerville, and Dr. Felton Green, Ruston.

Woman Charged With Theft Here

Monroe police late yesterday arrested a 22-year-old woman on a charge of felony theft.
Ruth Remore of 710 Miro street, who was apprehended at the corner of N. Fourth and Washington streets, was transferred to the parish jail after being charged at 8:25 p.m.
Mrs. Helen Neal, 54, of Mt. Holly, N. J., was arrested in the 800 block of St. John street at 7:15 p.m. on a vagrancy charge, and held on that charge and for fingerprint check.
Steve Spellman, 33, Negro of 1014 North 10th street was arrested last night after he allegedly struck his wife on the head with a bottle. He was charged with use of a dangerous weapon and public intoxication, and placed in the city jail.

Defense At Clinton Loses On Evidence

ized "to promote harmony and better understanding of all races." Ripples of laughter swept the courtroom at this description of the strongly pro-segregationist councils.

2 Days For U. S.
Before court adjourned for the weekend, the government announced it will probably take all day Monday and Tuesday to wind up its case. Defense witnesses were ordered to return next Wednesday.

It seemed apparent the trial will last at least until the end of next week and perhaps longer, since the defense has more than 80 witnesses under subpoena.
For the first time today, the government established an actual physical link between one of the defendants and the federal anti-union injunction they are accused of violating.

This was achieved through testimony by Sheriff Glad Woodward of Anderson (Clinton) County, who said he visited the farm of Cook in mid-September last year and notified a group gathering there for a meeting that the federal injunction had been issued.

Read Injunction
Woodward said he invited Cook and the others to go to his office in Clinton and read the injunction. Several of them did so, he said, but he could identify only Cook.

Previously, the government has relied chiefly on testimony by Knoxville area newspaper editors that news of the injunction had been widely circulated.

The battle over the White Citizens Council issue developed when McLeod accused the government of trying to show "bias and bitterness" on the part of the defendants by injecting the council charter into the trial.
Taylor sent the jury from the courtroom while defense and prosecution lawyers hotly debated the question.

Drowning out a chorus of defense objections with his powerful voice, U. S. Dist. Atty. John C. Crawford Jr. said he wanted to introduce the council charter because it showed that the 15 Tennessee defendants "were engaged in a common activity" with John Kasper, 27, the lone Northern defendant.

Executive Secretary
Kasper is executive secretary of the Seaboard council of White Citizens Councils.
Taylor broke off the row between opposing lawyers by ruling that the charter would be admitted for identification but would not be shown to the jury until the government lays the proper groundwork.

The defendants are on trial before an all-white jury on charges of criminal contempt. They are accused of violating a federal injunction last fall forbidding interference with peaceful integration of the previously all-white high school at Clinton, 20 miles northwest of Knoxville.

Legal experts say the outcome of the five-day-old trial could set a pattern for future enforcement of federal decrees in civil rights cases in the South.

Blasts Methods
Battling to halt what it called "trial by news media evidence," the defense accused Life magazine of perpetrating "a great smear" against the defendants by publishing pictures of them taken during the integration trouble last fall.

A. Y. Owen, 41, Oklahoma City, Okla., free-lance photographer, testified he took somewhere between 100 and 200 pictures of Clinton mob scenes on assignment for Life magazine.

McLeod said the magazine slanted its "pictures to lower and degrade" the people shown in them. Owen identified William Brakebill, 41, Clinton service station operator and one of the defendants, as appearing in some of the pictures.

Why Not Other Side?
Chief defense counsel Robert L. Dobbs, of Memphis, asked Owen why he didn't "give the other side of the story" by going into Clinton homes and taking pictures showing "honest, decent people."

"We tried that," Owen replied, "but they wouldn't let us in."
"Was that after you smeared them in your magazine?" Dobbs snapped.

The defense lawyer contended Life's pictures of events in Clinton "slandered" the town. He declared the publication "has no interest in humanity except to sell its magazines."

Crawford roared an objection at that point, and Judge Taylor admonished Dobbs: "Now, don't make any more remarks like that, Mr. Dobbs."
J. Benjamin Simmons, Washington, D.C., attorney for Kasper, said Life and Time magazine, both owned by the same firm, belonged to the "prointegration category" — favoring mixing of white and Negroes in the nation's schools. He added that they "came out with a great smear" during the racial tension at Clinton.

CIVIL DEFENSE OPERATION

Alert, Evacuation Carried Out Speedily In Twin Cities

Rapid was the "key" word to describe the process with which the civil defense alert and evacuation were carried out yesterday morning in the Twin Cities.
Within 15 minutes after the alert notice was received at 10:09 a.m., firetrucks and cars and police cars had cruised through the entire city of Monroe with sirens wailing, and in West Monroe, the siren set off near the downtown area could be heard over the entire community.

More than 700 students and faculty members from Northeast State College were evacuated from the college to Selman Field in 15 minutes. Mrs. George Forman, CD director in Monroe, stated that the fast evacuation was due to the good organization in the school and excellent traffic control.

which was set up by Major Jack Davis, traffic control director for civil defense. She also commented on the help which the National Guardsmen and volunteer workers gave in making the evacuation a smooth and speedy one.

Students Registered
After reaching the special warehouse at Selman Field, the students were registered within 12 minutes by workers from the Louisiana Division of Employment.

A mass feeding team went into operation to test its facilities, and the entire group had been supplied with sandwiches and drinks within 15 minutes. The entire process of registration and mass feeding consumed less than 35 minutes.

Monroe Mayor W. L. Clark Howard, who witnessed the evacuation, praised it as "the best organized and coordinated I have witnessed."

In West Monroe, more than 100 students and staff members of the Ouachita Valley Vocational School evacuated in a 15-vehicle convoy to the Fairgrounds, registered and fed in seven minutes, according to Mrs. Forman, who stated that the process was worthwhile as a test in case of an emergency in which Monroe would be a support area, which would be mobilized to help stricken areas further south in the state.

In Key Roles
Sidney Jackson, director of the Ouachita Valley Vocational School, and West Monroe Police Chief Jeff Caldwell were responsible for setting up the traffic control, and Fire Chief Earl Taylor sounded the siren warning and had a firetruck at the Fairgrounds, to provide communications and as a safety measure.
Mayor J. Allan Norris was in attendance at the Fairgrounds, and briefly addressed the group.
Approximately 30 workers took part in the registration and mass feeding.

100 Cities 'Crushed' In Mock Attack

aginary, the shadow cast by their passing was fantastically real. One after another, American cities, their streets deserted, their many-faceted industrial apparatus halted. For 15 minutes in turn these towns and cities lay as though dead beneath the make-believe ferocity of nuclear warfare.

Return To Life
Then, one by one again, they returned to life and their residents went about their business in areas serenely untouched by the fury of destruction.

But, had the raid been real, there would have been no return for uncounted millions of casualties. And the target cities would have been uninhabitable heaps of debris.

President Eisenhower, before he left Washington, had in theory set up a state of national emergency. Just military and Civil Defense units, and created a war agency to supervise price, wage, rationing and manpower controls.

House Fires Keep Monroe Firemen Busy

The inside of an attic was damaged in a blaze caused by spontaneous combustion at 11:20 a.m. yesterday in a house at 2707 First street.

Engine companies 103 and 105 were dispatched to the scene, remaining until shortly before 1 p.m.

Firemen stated that partial damage was done to the attic of the brick veneer home, but the flames were confined to the inside of the room, and did not break through the roof or side walls.

Owner and occupant of the house is Benny Gilbert, Negro, whose wife Mary discovered and reported the blaze.

Boards Ablaze
The inside wooden boards of the roof also caught fire, but quick action by firemen prevented any further damage. They remained at the house until the smoke and heat had diminished to a point that they were certain the fire would not flare up again.

No damage to the outside of the home was visible. It was insured.

Engine company 102 went to 815 Atkinson street at 9:33 a.m. yesterday when occupant, Gladys Carter, entered the house and found that it was filled with smoke.

She immediately called firemen, who discovered that the cause of the smoke was from a radio transformer which had become defective. Only the radio was damaged.

Earlier yesterday, one home was extensively damaged, and the point on two next-door houses was scorched by the intense heat from the burning structure.

Firetrucks 102 and 104 went to the blaze at 11:55 p.m. Thursday, and remained at 3308 Polk street until shortly after 3 a.m. Friday, fighting the flames which started at the front of the home owned and occupied by Thomas R. Turner.

Message On Hurricane Is Slated Tonight

BATON ROUGE, July 12 (UP)—Television and radio stations in Louisiana and Mississippi will broadcast a "Message to Hurricane Survivors" and "An Appeal" for aid.

Taking part in the program will be Gov. Earl Long, U.S. Sens. Allen Ellender and Russell Long, Secretary of State Wade O. Martin Jr., state Rep. Alvin Dyson of Cameron Parish, Sheriff O. B. Carter of Cameron, Dr. Cecil Clark of Cameron, and representatives of the State Health Department, Civil Defense, the state police, the insurance industry and the American Red Cross.

Martin said the program would meet "a great public need for dissemination of instructions and information to those directly affected."

The 30-minute show will be carried over eight television stations in New Orleans, Baton Rouge, Alexandria, Lake Charles and Lafayette, La., and Beaumont, Tex.

Forty-four radio stations in the area will carry a transcribed version of the program. It is scheduled for 7-7:30 p.m. but will be heard earlier on some radio stations and later on a few other radio and television stations.

U. S. Issues Its Strongest Statement On Lung Cancer

WASHINGTON, July 12 (UP)—The U. S. Public Health Service, in its strongest statement yet on the relationship of cigarette smoking to cancer, said today there is growing evidence that excessive smoking "is one of the causative factors in lung cancer."

Surgeon General LeRoy E. Burney, a pipe smoker, said an analysis of 18 independent studies has confirmed beyond reasonable doubt that there is a high degree of statistical association between lung cancer and heavy and prolonged cigarette smoking.

While Burney did not say what constituted "excessive" smoking, a public health spokesman said anyone who smoked two or more packs of cigarettes a day would fall into that category.

Takes Issue with Report
Dr. Clarence Cook Little, chairman of the scientific advisory board of the tobacco industry's research committee, took prompt issue with the report. He said it "adds nothing new to what has been known about the causes of lung cancer."

Little said the report merely "reflects the opinions of some statisticians and the relatively few experimental scientists who have actively charged that cigarette smoking is a cause of lung cancer."

He said a $2,200,000 program of grants set up by the tobacco industry for independent research on cancer causes "thus far has produced no evidence that cigarette smoking or other tobacco use contributes to the origin of lung cancer."

Amount Smoke Important
Burney based his statement on a Public Health Service review of a report made by a "scientific study group" which was set up in June, 1955, to go into the question.

Text Books Depository Is Expanded

The state depository for school text books here is being expanded some 14,000 square feet to meet the need due to the adoption of new books by the state department of education.

Expansion will boost the warehouse floor space to 50,000 square feet, A. K. Kilpatrick, operator, said yesterday.

"Completion of the program will come in about 10 days or two weeks," he added.

In the operation, Kilpatrick employs 18 persons and maintains a large truck to deliver books throughout the state. The depository receives books from various publishers and distributes them to schools in the state.

Two Charters Sought Here

Two domestic charters to operate businesses in Monroe and West Monroe have been applied for through the secretary of state, Wade O. Martin, Jr.

Freeda Mickel has applied for a charter to operate a real estate business with par value at $15,000.

In West Monroe, the Bar-Diamond Studio, Inc., (photography) 704 North Seventh street, with a par value of $5,000 is requesting permission to operate.

Two notices of dissolution have been filed for the northeast area. They are Home Furniture, Inc., of Monroe and Price Hardware and Furniture Co., Ltd., of Ruston.

Light Turnout Is Expected In Bond Election

Mrs. Mae Lucky, Ouachita parish registrar of voters, said yesterday she expects a light vote for the July 30th $4½ million bond election for the expansion of the Monroe power plant.

She predicted only about 35 or 40 per cent of Monroe property owners will turn out for the election.

"If this election follows the pattern of most bond elections, we won't have a very large turnout," she stated.

Mrs. Lucky also emphasized the importance of not staying home and "letting everybody else vote." This attitude, she said, "often defeats a very important issue."

places and voting commissioners are 12 precincts in Ward 10 and will be maintained the registrar 10 in Ward 3, which will be the stated, with four commissioners at only wards affected by the bond each of the 22 precincts. There election.

Ike Signs Bill To Cut Initial FHA Payment

the current fiscal year. Hence, they do not represent a serious setback in our effort to control federal expenditures as to require that the bill be approved.

"Accordingly," he said, "I have given instructions to limit the use of the new authority provided by this act during the fiscal year 1958 to amounts consistent with the over-all budget program."

The 1958 fiscal year started July 1 and runs until next June 30.

Only 'Authorizes'

The bill authorizes, but does not direct, the FHA commissioner to reduce the down payment on the first $10,000 of an FHA-insured mortgage to as low as 3 per cent. An additional 15 per cent would be required for any amount between $10,000 and $15,000, and 20 per cent on any amount above $15,000.

This compares with present requirements of 5 per cent on the first $9,000 and 25 per cent on the rest. Thus, on a $15,000 home, for example, the down payment could be cut from $1,550 to $1,050.

President George S. Goodyear of the National Assn. of Home Builders issued a statement last week asking Eisenhower to "direct" FHA to adopt the new terms. He said many thousands of families had been "squeezed out of the housing market because they could not afford the large down payments under the old law."

Beck And Son Charged With Grand Larceny

2, 1955, $2,800 from the sale of a 1953 Cadillac to Kenneth L. Buckley. The indictment said the car originally was purchased by the Western Conference of Teamsters and belonged to that organization at the time of the sale.

The car which Beck Sr. is accused of selling was purchased by Martin Duffy, a specialties distributor and member of the Teamsters. The indictment said Duffy paid for the car with a check made out to the Western Conference.

However, testimony was presented that the check was deposited in the bank under the endorsement of the B&B Investment Co., a private concern headed by Beck.

A total of 300 families' farms have been totally submerged and an additional 755 heavily damaged. This has affected the pasturing of more than 10,000 head of sheep and cattle, mostly cattle, and approximately 15,000 hogs.

Contract Plan Told For Part Of Super Road

RUSTON (Special) — The city of Ruston was told yesterday that officials plan to have the portion of the new federal superhighway from a point west of Ruston to a point east of Choudrant under contract by January 1, 1958.

C. F. Meadows, in charge of the project, said yesterday that engineers from the Louisiana Department of Highways and the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads were making a "plan in hand" inspection of that section from U.S. 167 in Ruston to the intersection of State Route 145 north of Choudrant.

"Our preliminary plans have been completed on the approximately seven and one-half mile section and we propose to complete the final plans after the inspection," Meadows added.

He said that when final plans are completed, we will be in a position to furnish definite right-of-way limits and the detailed intersection details.

Senate To Decide On Civil Rights Bill Debate Tuesday

who want to make speeches on the issue.

The Senate recessed at 6:55 p.m. tonight. Majority Leader Johnson (D-Tex.) announced the Senate would meet at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday to allow all the senators to be heard. Night sessions will also be held if necessary, he said.

Russell said he expects the Senate to begin considering amendments immediately after Tuesday's vote. He anticipated there might be a vote on one or more amendments next week, since he said he expected "long speeches" by Southerners.

The threat of a Southern filibuster to prevent passage of the bill still existed, Russell said, any decision on a filibuster—an effort to talk the bill to death—may be influenced by how far the Senate goes in softening the terms of the legislation.

Russell was the only senator who spoke on the debate limitation agreement. He appealed to all senators to approach the issue as "responsible men" once the bill is before the Senate.

Two Southerners made major speeches against the bill during the day.

Sen. Talmadge (D-Ga.) attacked it on the ground it would set up "tyranny in its rankest form."

He said it would turn the attorney general into a civil rights czar superior to the Constitution and create a civil rights commission with "limitless inquisitorial powers."

Sen. Stennis (D-Miss.) called the bill an evil concoction of some "crafty and designing lawyers" which, he said, contains "at least 10 revolutionary departures from sound and accepted legal principles and procedures."

Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader, moved last Monday to bring the legislation to the floor.

Knowland reported after a White House breakfast with President Eisenhower that the administration still stands behind the civil rights measure as it passed the House June 18.

"Their recommendations are still their recommendations," the GOP leader said. "They have never taken the position, however, that there should not be any clarifying amendments."

Not Wavering

Some Northern Democrats supporting the bill, including Rep. Celler of New York and Sen. McNamara of Michigan, contend that Eisenhower is wavering in his support of the legislation. Asked if this were true, Knowland said "No."

Russell is working out a voting agreement with Knowland and Johnson. He told reporters "there is no possibility of a vote on Sen. Knowland's motion before Tuesday. I'd prefer to delay it until Wednesday, or even Thursday."

Almost all the Southern Democrats attended a 45-minute conference in Russell's office.

"We felt we have been fully justified in our debate on the motion to take up," Russell said. "This bill has pursued a very unusual course. There is no committee report on it. We feel justified in putting into the Senate record, at least, an analysis of this bill."

Knowland's motion has been debated in overtime Senate sessions since last Monday. Johnson is reported to believe that when the time for voting comes, the motion will be carried by about a 2-1 ratio.

No Simple Answer

In a renewal of the debate today, Johnson told the Senate that the speeches so far had demonstrated that the civil rights controversy is not one that can be settled by a simple "yes" or "no."

"I believe that most thoughtful men now agree that there are serious issues which must be explored carefully and prudently," he continued.

"There are still those, of course, who believe that the Senate should operate on the basis of 'Get out of town by sundown.' But I doubt whether they will impress the Senate or the great majority of our people."

Knowland has estimated the civil rights fight may keep Congress in session until mid-September. Very little other business will be taken up by the Senate while the debate is in progress. A lo-jam of other legislation is piling up.

Russell, in another floor speech, contended the bill gives the attorney general far more power to enforce civil rights by injunction than he asked for initially.

He called the measure "an attempt at legislative legerdemain and obfuscation."

Almed At Dixie

Russell said the broad and punitive powers sought for the attorney general were aimed at 40 million white persons who live in the South. By a series of questions, Sen. Malone (R-Nev.) indicated he agreed with Russell.

Sen. Stennis (D-Miss.) kept the southern attack rolling, saying some "craft and designing lawyers" had drawn a bill which contains "at least 10 revolutionary departures from sound and accepted legal principles and procedures."

"It is my most earnest plea," Stennis said, "the sponsors and supporters of this bill will reconsider this evil compilation of legal tricks and conclude it unworthy of their support. Its dangers are clear and present, and the promised benefits microscopic compared with the evil of warping the due process of law in America."

The Mississippi said the bill would confer on the attorney general power to bring into court all manner of public officials—mayors, election officials, members of school and park and playground boards, county commissioners—who do not perform their duties the way he thinks they should.

"To prosecute these people," Stennis said, "the attorney general is given the resources of the government, the ordinary processes of administrative law are suspended and rolled back; the courts of equity are employed to serve a purpose for which they were not intended; jury trial is dispensed with; the ordinary limitations on punishment are suspended and left to the discretion of the sitting judge."

In a bill of particulars, Stennis said that among other things the bill would:

1. Put the United States against states in civil cases, against state governmental units or office holders.

2. Unconstitutionally insure unequal protection of the law by enabling the attorney general to withhold remedies provided by the bill—"socialized law at its worst."

3. Dissipate the strength of the FBI in investigating "groundless, unfounded and hysterical complaints" in civil cases.

4. Seek to "circumvent the fundamental guarantee of a right of trial by jury."

5. Short circuit "the protection inherent in the requirement of unanimity in a jury verdict."

member, praised Ellender for his "outstanding job." He said that Louisiana has "a very keen understanding of flood control and navigation projects and is very sympathetic."

Further praise of the Senator came from Sen. Robert Kerr of Oklahoma, another committee member. He said Ellender, in his opinion, "the most comprehensive understanding of flood control and water conservation of any man in the senate."

across page one of the News-Star. We all thought that wonderful! There are 23,000 clients and 30,000 phones in use, many having a number of telephones to a single house or place of business. Yes, the Twin Cities show growth!

Members of the Kiwanis clubs here are back from the International Convention in Atlantic City where 15,000 were present and the meetings were held in the big convention hall.

Famous men were on the program. Among speakers of note were the Philippines ambassador to the United States and the justice of the Queen's court in Ottawa, who was Samuel Friedman. The incoming president will be H. Park Arnold of California.

Jimmie Mann, 40, son of J. H. Mann, will greet Saturday with unusual interest for it will mark his discharge as patient at St. Francis where he has been for 69 days. He was badly injured in a car crash months ago on Sterling road and his left leg has been slow in healing. Now it is in a cast and will be for three months.

He will go to his home near Rayville where he is in business (carbon black) with his father, who some years ago was a highly prominent businessman with offices in the Bernhardt building.

Jimmie is still seeking identity of the man who converted him and assured that he would not be found permanently injured. This is when, for a long time, he lay entangled in the wreckage.

He said that strange man gave him a great uplift by the kindly words spoken when they were badly needed.

It is fine to observe how all—at least many—different denominations are pitching in with cash to aid hurricane-stricken south Louisiana. Common especially.

The Jewish people have raised money, so have the Catholics, and the Methodists and Salvation Army are on the job to raise funds. Right here in Monroe and over the state the Baptists are getting money. They have set the goal at $100,000 to replace damage done to churches and other buildings in South Louisiana. The Monroe First Baptist Church will take up a special offering Sunday for this humanitarian cause.

A colored lodge of Masons with 23,000 members is also out to aid and is asking that all members of this lodge donate a dollar. This would make a fine total sum. More power to 'em all!

Executive Secretary

Kasper is executive secretary of the Seaboard council of White Citizens Councils.

Taylor broke off the row between opposing lawyers by ruling that the charter would be admitted for identification but would not be shown to the jury until the government lays the proper groundwork.

The defendants are on trial before an all-white jury on charges of criminal contempt. They are accused of violating a federal injunction last fall forbidding interference with peaceful integration of the previously all-white high school at Clinton, 20 miles northwest of Knoxville.

Legal experts say the outcome of the five-day-old trial could set a pattern for future enforcement of federal decrees in civil rights cases in the South.

Blasts Methods

Battling to halt what it called "trial by news media evidence," the defense accused Life magazine of perpetrating "a great smear" against the defendants by publishing pictures of them taken during the integration trouble last fall.

A. Y. Owen, 41, Oklahoma City, Okla., free-lance photographer, testified he took somewhere between 100 and 200 pictures of Clinton mob scenes on assignment for Life magazine.

McLeod said the magazine slanted its "pictures to lower and degrade" the people shown in them. Owen identified William Brakehill, 41, Clinton service station operator and one of the defendants, as appearing in some of the pictures.

Why Not Other Side?

Chief defense counsel Robert L. Dobbs, of Memphis, asked Owen why he didn't "give the other side of the story" by going into Clinton homes and taking pictures showing "honest, decent people."

"We tried that," Owen replied, "but they wouldn't let us in."

"Was that after you smeared them in your magazine?" Dobbs snapped.

The defense lawyer contended Life's pictures of events in Clinton "slandered" the town. He declared the publication "has no interest in humanity except to sell its magazines."

Crawford roared an objection at that point, and Judge Taylor admonished Dobbs: "Now, don't make any more remarks like that, Mr. Dobbs."

J. Benjamin Simmons, Washington, D.C., attorney for Kasper, said Life and Time magazine, both owned by the same firm, belonged to the "prointegration category"—favoring mixing of whites and Negroes in the nation's schools. He added that they "came out with a great smear" during the racial tension at Clinton.

Woman Charged With Theft Here

Monroe police late yesterday arrested a 22-year-old woman on a charge of felony theft.

Ruth Remore of 710 Miro street, who was apprehended at the corner of N. Fourth and Washington streets, was transferred to the parish jail after being charged at 8:25 p.m.

Mrs. Helen Neal, 54, of Mt. Holly, N. J., was arrested in the 800 block of St. John street at 7:15 p.m. on a vagrancy charge, and held on that charge and for fingerprint check.

Steve Spellman, 33, Negro of 1014 North 10th street was arrested last night after he allegedly struck his wife on the head with a bottle. He was charged with use of a dangerous weapon and public intoxication, and placed in the city jail.

Defense At Clinton Loses On Evidence

ized "to promote harmony and better understanding of all races." Ripples of laughter swept the courtroom at this description of the strongly pro-segregationist councils.

2 Days For U. S.

Before court adjourned for the weekend, the government announced it will probably take all day Monday and Tuesday to wind up its case. Defense witnesses were ordered to return next Wednesday.

It seemed apparent the trial will last at least until the end of next week and perhaps longer, since the defense has more than 80 witnesses under subpoena.

For the first time today, the government established an actual physical link between one of the defendants and the federal anti-violence injunction they are accused of violating.

This was achieved through testimony by Sheriff Glad Woodward of Knollyville area newspaper editors that news of the injunction had been widely circulated.

The battle over the White Citizens Council issue developed when McLeod accused the government of trying to show "bias and bitterness" on the part of the defendants by injecting the council charter into the trial.

Taylor sent the jury from the courtroom while defense and prosecution lawyers hotly debated the question.

Drowning out a chorus of defense objections with his powerful voice, U. S. Dist. Atty. John C. Crawford Jr. said he wanted to introduce the council charter because it showed that the 15 Tennessee defendants "were engaged in a common activity" with John Kasper, 27, the lone Northern defendant.

Read Injunction

Woodward said he invited Cook and the others to go to his office in Clinton and read the injunction. Several of them did so, he said, but he could identify only Cook.

Previously, the government has relied chiefly on testimony by Knollyville area newspaper editors that news of the injunction had been widely circulated.

CIVIL DEFENSE OPERATION

Alert, Evacuation Carried Out Speedily In Twin Cities

Rapid was the "key" word to describe the process with which the civil defense alert and evacuation were carried out yesterday morning in the Twin Cities.

Within 15 minutes after the alert notice was received at 10:09 a.m., firetrucks and cars and police cars had cruised through the entire city of Monroe with sirens wailing, and in West Monroe, the siren set off near the downtown area could be heard over the entire community.

More than 700 students and faculty members from Northeast State College were evacuated from the college to Selman Field in 13 minutes. Mrs. George Forman, CD director in Monroe, stated that the fast evacuation was due to good organization in the school and excellent traffic control.

Students Registered

After reaching the special warehouse at Selman Field, the students were registered within 12 minutes by workers from the Louisiana Division of Employment.

A mass feeding team went into operation to test its facilities, and the entire group had been supplied with sandwiches and drinks within 15 minutes. The entire process of registration and mass feeding consumed less than 35 minutes.

Monroe Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard, who witnessed the evacuation, praised it as "the best organized and coordinated I have witnessed."

In West Monroe, more than 100 students and staff members of the Ouachita Valley Vocational School evacuated in a 15-vehicle convoy to the Fairgrounds, registered and fed in seven minutes, according to Mrs. Forman, who stated that the process was worthwhile as a test in case of an emergency in which Monroe would be a support area, which would be mobilized to help stricken areas further south in the state.

In Key Roles

Sidney Jackson, director of the Ouachita Valley Vocational School, and West Monroe Police Chief Jeff Caldwell were responsible for setting up the traffic control, and Fire Chief Earl Taylor sounded the siren warning and had a fire-truck at the Fairgrounds, to provide communications and as a safety measure.

Mayor J. Allan Morris was in attendance at the Fairgrounds, and briefly addressed the group. Approximately 30 workers took part in the registration and mass feeding.

Return To Life

Then, one by one again, they returned to life and their residents went about their business in areas serenely untouched by the fury of destruction.

But, had the raid been real, there would have been no return for uncounted millions of casualties. And the target cities would have been uninhabitable heaps of debris.

President Eisenhower, before he left Washington, had in theory set up a state of national emergency, alerted military and Civil Defense units, and created a war agency to supervise price, wage, rationing and manpower controls.

House Fires Keep Monroe Firemen Busy

The inside of an attic was damaged in a blaze caused by spontaneous combustion at 11:20 a.m. yesterday in a house at 2707 First street.

Engine companies 103 and 105 were dispatched to the scene, remaining until shortly before 1 p.m. Firemen stated that partial damage was done to the attic of the brick veneer home, but the flames were confined to the inside of the room, and did not break through the roof or side walls.

Owner and occupant of the house is Benny Gilbert, Negro, whose wife Mary discovered and reported the blaze.

The inside wooden boards of the roof also caught fire, but quick action by firemen prevented any further damage. They remained at the house until the smoke and heat had diminished to a point that they were certain the fire would not flare up again.

No damage to the outside of the home was visible. It was insured. Engine company 102 went to 813 Atkinson street at 9:33 a.m. yesterday when occupant, Gladys Carter, entered the house and found that it was filled with smoke. She immediately called firemen, who discovered that the cause of the smoke was from a radio transformer which had become defective. Only the radio was damaged.

Earlier yesterday, one home was extensively damaged, and the point on two next-door houses was scorched by the intense heat from the burning structure.

Firetrucks 102 and 104 went to the base at 11:55 p.m. Thursday, and remained at 3308 Polk street until shortly after 3 a.m. Friday, fighting the flames which started at the front of the home owned and occupied by Thomas R. Turner.

Message On Hurricane Is Slated Tonight

BATON ROUGE, July 12 (AP)—Television and radio stations in Louisiana devastated south and central Louisiana tomorrow night will broadcast a "Message to Hurricane Survivors" and "An Appeal" for aid.

Taking part in the program will be Gov. Earl Long, U.S. Sens. Allen Ellender and Russell Long, Secretary of State Wade O. Martin Jr., state Rep. Alvin Dyson of Cameron Parish, Sheriff O. B. Carter of Cameron, and representatives of the State Health Department, Civil Defense, the state police, the insurance industry and the American Red Cross.

Martin said the program would meet "a great public need for dissemination of instructions and information to those directly affected."

The 30-minute show will be carried over eight television stations in New Orleans, Baton Rouge, Alexandria, Lake Charles and Lafayette, La., and Beaumont, Tex.

U. S. Issues Its Strongest Statement On Lung Cancer

WASHINGTON, July 12 (UP)—The U. S. Public Health Service, in its strongest statement yet on the relationship of cigarettes to cancer, said today there is growing evidence that excessive smoking "is one of the causative factors in lung cancer."

Surgeon General LeRoy E. Burney, a pipe smoker, said an analysis of 18 independent studies has "confirmed beyond reasonable doubt that there is a high degree of statistical association between lung cancer and heavy and prolonged cigarette smoking."

While Burney did not say what constituted "excessive" smoking, a public health spokesman said anyone who smoked two or more packs of cigarettes a day would fall into that category.

Takes Issue with Report
Dr. Clarence Cook Little, chairman of the scientific advisory board of the tobacco industry's research committee, took prompt issue with the report. He said it "adds nothing new to what has been known about the causes of lung cancer."

Little said the report merely "reflects the opinions of some statisticians and the relatively few experimental scientists who have actively charged that cigarette smoking is a cause of lung cancer."

He said a $2,200,000 program of grants set up by the tobacco industry for independent research on cancer causes "thus far has produced no evidence that cigarette smoking or other tobacco use contributes to the origin of lung cancer."

Amount Smoke Important
Burney based his statement on a Public Health Service review of a report made by a "scientific study group" which was set up in June, 1955, to go into the ques-

Text Books Depository Is Expanded

The state depository for school text books here is being expanded some 14,000 square feet to meet the need due to the adoption of new books by the state department of education.

Expansion will boost the warehouse floor space to 50,000 square feet, A. K. Kilpatrick, operator, said yesterday.

"Completion of the program will come in about 10 days or two weeks," he added.

In the operation, Kilpatrick employs 18 persons and maintains a large truck to deliver books throughout the state. The depository receives books from various publishers and distributes them to schools in the state.

Two Charters Sought Here

Two domestic charters to operate businesses in Monroe and West Monroe have been applied for through the secretary of state, Wade O. Martin, Jr.

Freeda Mickel has applied for a charter to operate a real estate business with par value at $15,000.

In West Monroe, the Bar-Diamond Studio, Inc., (photography) 704 North Seventh street, with a par value of $5,000 is requesting permission to operate.

Two notices of dissolution have been filed for the northeast area. They are Home Furniture, Inc., of Monroe and Price Hardware and Furniture Co., Ltd., of Ruston.

Light Turnout Is Expected In Bond Election

Mrs. Mae Lucky, Ouachita parish registrar of voters, said yesterday she expects a light vote for the July 30th $4½ million bond election for the expansion of the Monroe power plant.

She predicted only about 35 or 40 per cent of Monroe property owners will turn out for the election.

"If this election follows the pattern of most bond elections, we won't have a very large turnout," she stated. Mrs. Lucky also emphasized the importance of not staying home and "letting everybody else vote." This attitude, she said, "often defeats a very important issue."

Clean City Cherished

A reputation for a clean city is one to be cherished and one of which every resident should be proud. Most of the visitors to our good city get their opinions of the town from the appearance of its downtown section. Therefore, we suggest that the officials should enforce all ordinances dealing with filthy alleys and blocked alleys.

A paved alley is a clean alley. Therefore, we believe that ordinances demanding the paving of all downtown alleys should be passed so that the alleys can be kept as clean as the streets.

A casual walk through many alleys in the downtown area shows that ordinances dealing with filth and traffic are not being enforced. Many alleys are blocked by motorists who leave their automobiles parked for hours, while other alleys are not usable because of trash and garbage thrown about.

Such a situation is a blight on the City of Monroe. It is a breeding place for flies and vermin. It is a good indication to the visitor that Monroe does not seem to care—not a healthy reputation for our city.

There is no excuse for such a situation to exist. The Department of Sanitation should clean up this menace at once. The violators should be punished.

The same is true for the police department in regard to traffic-blocked alleys. Police Chief James C. Kelly, Jr., knows of the violations. He admitted the situation was adequately covered by city laws. But he seemed reluctant to enforce them—judging from his statement in which he said he would "prefer the cooperation of the public, instead of enforcing the law."

It is obvious to anyone that the public has been warned sufficiently. It should be equally as apparent that a majority of the motorists who have been violating the law will continue to do so unless the police department adopts a "get tough" policy.

Traffic blocked alleys are dangerous. Fire trucks may be forced to lose valuable time because of a blocked alley. Even police officers, who occasionally use the alleys to reach the scene of a crime or accident, could lose much needed time because of an impassable alley—time that could mean the difference between life and death.

Girard Sacrificial Offering

Once more the United States supreme court has acted to nullify what has been accepted as the meaning of the American constitution ever since the government of this country was formed.

The constitution of the United States guarantees each of its citizens the right of trial by a jury of his peers if he is accused of a crime.

In upholding the American national administration's decision to surrender G. I. William S. Girard to Japan for manslaughter trial on charges of fatally shooting a Japanese woman, the supreme court said the constitution did not forbid the surrender of Americans to foreign countries for trial. It added that, since there was no such prohibition, the right of the executive branch of the government to make its own decision should be upheld.

If the supreme court can hold that the constitution does not prohibit the trial of an American by another nation, it can, as far as we are able to see, hold that the constitution does not guarantee any kind of protection to the citizens of this country. Nothing can be plainer than the guarantee that citizens have the right to a trial by a jury of their peers. Japanese are not peers of the Americans and neither are the people of any other country, since the systems of trial vary in the different countries and many of them do not guarantee a jury trial, and since the thinking in each country is different.

The supreme court has ruled that not all citizens of this country are entitled to a jury trial.

The effect is that the faith of the people either in the supreme court or in the meaning of the constitution has been deeply shaken.

For more than 150 years the constitution and the supreme court were looked upon, in combination, as the great bulwark of human rights. Now that bulwark has been shaken to its foundations. If not destroyed, The people have come to feel that the present supreme court gives them little, if any, protection, under the constitution.

The guilt or innocence of Girard is not an issue in the decision to deny him a trial by his American peers. The man may be guilty and, if some of the published stories are true, he could be guilty beyond the point of simple manslaughter. He could be guilty of murder if he deliberately enticed the woman onto the firing range and deliberately ran at her with a rifle and fired point-blank at close range, as one witness has testified.

The issue is whether or not the American constitution meant what it said when it stated that every American should have the right of trial by a jury of his peers.

Decision after decision by the supreme court has jarred the faith of the people in the court or in the constitution. Either the supreme court or the constitution does not mean what the American people have always believed it meant.

We believe that one or the other has lost the meaning that the founding fathers of this country intended it should have. We believe one or the other has lost the meaning that the people of today intended it should have.

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAYS

Embattled Farmers Won America's First Major Battle; Grass Rooters Follow Suit

BOISE, Idaho — It was the "embattled farmers" who won America's first major battle and occasionally in modern times the homestead boys from the grass roots still rise up and shoot down the enemies of freedom.

This happened just before the July 4th recess, when a large delegation arrived in Washington from Idaho to oppose the Morse-Pfost bill for a Federalized dam at Hells Canyon on the Snake River. The delegation included leaders of the Farm Bureau, the Idaho State Grange a spokesman for the State Tax Commission, some hick - town boosters and at least one small - town newspaper publisher whom I met on this trip, which was sponsored by the Idaho Power Company Public Relations. He is R. S. Tofflemire of the Twin Falls (Idaho) Times-News. The following dialogue ensued between the mild Mr. Tofflemire and the Democratic needleman of the House Interior Committee, Rep. Clair Engle of California.

Rep. Engle: "Mr. Tofflemire . . . are you aware that this government in the past few years has given some $350 million of American taxpayers' money to various countries of the world?"

Mr. Tofflemire: "I have so heard; yes, sir."

Rep. Engle: "Do you not think . . . if that kind of development is good overseas . . . that it is proper for . . . Congress (to give) some of the taxpayers' money for those things that benefit America?"

Mr. Tofflemire: "I do not agree, Mr. Engle, for this reason: I am of the opinion that the government can give us nothing in the first place which it has not taken away from us originally."

Rep. Engle: "Now we are not asking about that."

Mr. Tofflemire: "It is a good point, nevertheless."

It was such a good point that the House Sub Committee junked the federalized dam and the Idaho delegation went home rejoicing. But what are some of the things which these hardy men from the West objected to giving up to the Federal Government? Here are a few:

Self - development. Idaho is, in fact, underdeveloped. Like the patronizingly - called "backward areas" of the world, it is a prime target for the attentions of the public do - gooders in their top - not generosity with public money. The Idaho people, according to opinion surveys which I have seen, would reject the Federal dam in a referendum by something like 3-to-2 or 2-to-1. There is a good reason for this folk-shrewdness. An underdeveloped state is one with room to grow. That is what Idaho has been doing, according to indices which are readily available for examination. Between 1947-54 Idaho increased its industrial capacity by 41 per cent. Texas, in comparison, increased it only 39 per cent. Since the end of World War II, which includes the same period, Idaho private enterprise hydropower capacity has increased by 300 per cent and demands under license for private construction will lift the present kilowatt capacity by another 300 per cent. This is one reason why

Idaho rejects the Social Democrats bearing gifts.

Local hustle. It amazed me on this visit to Idaho to find that the hamlet of Weiser (pop. 4000) in the Snake River Valley was supporting a big city device called the Industrial Development Corporation to fetch new business into the community. I found that other towns like Twin Falls, Nampa and Caldwell had the same thing. There are at least 28 Idaho towns the smallest I could find is Flen's Ferry (Pop. 1500) which publish fancy slick - paper brochures that are based on industrial research and are intended to attract new development. People like this simply don't want federal charity which always means federal meddling. It's not insignificant, I think, that 65 per cent of Idaho people own their own homes, the highest percentage in the Inter Mountain States and fourth in the nation.

Local Revenue. Idaho is hurting for lack of money to build its schools and roads and to do the many things that turn a raw materials state into a manufacturing one. The federal dam would cancel out an additional $10 million a year in tax revenue to state and federal governments which the series of private industry dams being built by the Idaho Power Company will bring. Idaho businessmen also feel that the federalized kilowatts would be transmitted to the Pacific Coast where the government is still supporting huge emergency - always war industries. This would be the end of industrial development in Idaho.

Congress Fails To Retain Insurance On Floods, Okays Reactor Protection

Congress has shied at voting funds for government flood insurance. But the house rushed through a bill approving federal insurance coverage for atomic reactor accidents, up to 500 million dollars, though some members admitted they didn't know what a reactor was.

Failure to act on flood insurance legislation killed the federal flood insurance act which expired June 30, when the house could not decide how much the federal government should contribute to supplement private flood insurance, but mere mention of the damage which might occur from a reactor explosion brought approval of insurance against such a catastrophe, which industry has demanded before it will undertake construction of reactor projects.

With all the talk in government circles about 90 per cent "clean," nuclear weapons, which most congressmen also find completely baffling, it was the former chairman of the joint committee on atomic energy, Rep. Sterling Cole (Rep. N. Y.) who undertook to explain that a reactor is the boiler or furnace part of an electrical generating plant, with nuclear energy providing the heat that boils the water that turns the turbines. No reactor has yet exploded, so there have been no fatalities, nor any way of judging how many might result. Since reactors and other atomic energy power plants, such as those for atomic submarines and other naval vessels, are being built by private industry, it was explained that the U. S. must now determine the extent of government liability in event of a blow - up.

Each applicant for a reactor license must agree to provide insurance coverage up to 65 million, and beyond that the government takes over. Radioactivity from a reactor could be as deadly as that from a bomb, but in a reactor, it was explained to the house, the radioactivity is contained behind walls of concrete steel or lead. And as long as the controls work on a reactor, the radioactive material will be kept inside.

House members were reassured by spokesmen who admittedly knew comparatively little about atomic reactors, but Admiral H. G. Rickover, chief of the naval reactors branch of the atomic energy commission, who knows as much about them as anyone in government didn't quite agree about their safety. He told a house subcommittee:

"The whole reactor game hangs on a much more slender thread than most people are aware. There are a lot of things that can go wrong and it requires eternal vigilance. All we have to have is one bad accident in the United States and it might set the whole game back for a generation."

What the reactor will do, in comparison with a conventional power plant, is illustrated by the submarine Nautilus, said Rickover. Fuel, she ran 62,500 miles, for On her first "core" of nuclear which a conventional sub would have required 2,170,000 gallons of oil. The cost of diesel oil would have been around $200,000, but Rickover intimated that was less than the cost of the nuclear fuel.

The Electric Boat Co. at New London, Conn., which built the successful Nautilus and the less successful Sea Wolf, will be supplemented in construction of more nuclear powered subs by Ingalls Shipbuilding & Drydock Co., which have been awarded contracts for additional vessels.

The necessary for protection of submarine building plants is much less than for land plants, as the atomic reactors are built elsewhere and installed and the tests are conducted at sea.

Rates to be paid by private builders and operators for government indemnity will be in proportion to size of the atomic reactors. Commonwealth Edison Co. of Chicago would pay $18,900 a year, and other charges would range as low as $360 for General Electric and $100 for Armory Institute, Chicago.

Even the possible danger, like everything else about atomic energy, is hard to figure.

'Inside Stories' Soon To Tell How Democrats To Win

In a short while the "inside stories" will begin to appear, giving you the lowdown on how the Democratic high command plans to lick the GOP in next year's Congressional elections.

But really, you don't have to wait for the political pundits to pontificate to get the inside. Without a single talk with one strategist in one top - secret conference, I can give you the lowdown right now. Here it is.

Assuming that during the next 15 months our economy rolls along just about as is, the issue on which the Democrats will try to beat the Republicans in 1956 will be:

Prosperity — Its paradoxical pressures, perils, pains and pitfalls.

It seems so startlingly upside-down that I admit I found myself blinking my eyes even as I typed the above six "Ps". Yet the strategy becomes obvious when you look hard at what's going on in our economy today. And the prosperity issues are by no means superficial — by no means.

By any reasonable yardstick, our land today is more prosperous than ever before. We're turning out a record total of goods and services; incomes of workers are hitting new highs every month; corporation profits are climbing too; joblessness is at close to rock bottom; on average, the stock market is hovering near its historic peaks.

Economic conditions do profoundly influence political trends. And so, with this background, you might logically conclude that the party of the man in the White House should have an easy time winning.

But it's not that simple. For beneath the surface of 1957's prosperity are pressures, perils, pains and pitfalls which tend to make today's prosperity a paradox to millions of individual Americans. Just to name a few major ones there are:

The pressures of "tight money". Of the credit squeeze which has sent borrowing costs skyrocketing and made loans harder to get than in a quarter - century. The credit shortage is badly squeezing homebuilders, homebuyers, countless numbers of businessmen and consumers. The pitfalls of small business. The money - manpower - materials pinch on the small businessman in the last few years has been relentless, and there is no point whatsoever in the GOP's denying it. The total of small business failures in this period of prosperity is appalling; the surge toward giantism in industry is frightening.

The perils of the steadily climbing cost of living and the steadily shrinking value of the dollar. No matter what the GOP claims for its price stabilization record from 1953 through 1955, the fact is that during the past 18 months the cost of living has been increasing persistently to all-time highs, and the value of the dollar has been dwindling persistently to all - time lows. A prosperity which involves these trends is a mockery to the millions whose paychecks are not keeping pace, and to the millions who have savings in the bank, insurance, U. S. bonds.

The pains of the record tax load. While Federal income taxes aren't as high as they were, state and local taxes have been zooming and a tax bite on us hurts no matter what source does the biting. What's more, big business condemnation of the administration's ballooning budget dramatized the size of the tax burden even to those who were becoming numb and resigned to carrying the burden indefinitely.

Senator Byrd becomes indignant at the suggestion that his Senate Finance Committee's probe into this administration's money policies is loaded with political over and undertones. But, of course, the hearings are loaded with them. In fact, they're giving us a preview of the 1958 campaign. (Okay, I confess; this is my "inside" source.)

But what if prosperity disappears before the fall of 1958 and we slide into a slump? Why, then the Democrats will have so much to say about the GOP's mismanagement of 1957's prosperity that its pressures and perils became overwhelming and the boom turned into a bust.

Britain's Socialists Seek To Buy Control Of Industry

Britain's Socialists, unable to gain control of Britain's government with either bullets or ballots are going to try dollars.

This is straight from the Labor Party Executive Council.

Creeping Socialism isn't creeping fast enough to satisfy them.

Britain's Socialists are right now buying their way into control of Britain's major industries.

1. Labor leaders will buy up enough stock to nominate directors and thus control big corporations.

2. Labor leaders will acquire outright one or more firms in an industry to compete with private firms.

3. Labor leaders will acquire all or part of monopoly industries. Primary targets in their campaign to "buy control of Britain" will be shipbuilding, machine manufacturing, chemical and aircraft industries.

When you consider the patronage possibilities, Labor needs only two directors on each of Britain's "big 500" industries to dictate to the rest.

Presently the announced objective is to "redistribute the wealth." Actually, it would establish a more vicious monopoly than Britain has seen since her cruelest Kings.

When Al Capone lost "control" of Chicago and the "Feds" closed in, the old mob went underground. And they came up disguised in business suits.

The syndicate of hoodlums that rules Chicago today employs violence only rarely, and then only against one another.

Today their stranglehold on the city is by virtue of "legitimate" business connections.

They bought in. They eventually controlled whole segments of the city's economy. Competitors were not shot. They were simply disposed of "legitimately" by being squeezed out of business.

When Senator Kefauver dug into Chicago's interlocking crime combines he announced, "Chicago is, in many respects, ruled extralegally by Stone-Age criminals who are themselves untouchable by law."

So powerful is the criminal underworld in Chicago that you cannot spend 24 hours in the city without kicking in to the syndicate.

You are forced to pay because they control so many hotels, restaurants, dry cleaners, liquor distributors, breweries, dairies, and assorted other whole industries (you numerous to list here that you cannot survive one whole day in Chicago without paying tribute).

And you can't jail them because their businesses are technically legitimate.

Technically, it is no crime for a coalition of British Socialists to use union dues to buy themselves into control of England.

But when they have succeeded — and they could — under whatever pretense they try to justify their monopoly, it will be as restraining and as stifling and ultimately as ruthless as necessary.

When they're voted in, they can be voted out.

But when they buy in, they can be as arbitrary as they like.

Daily Devotions

The Lord is thy keeper; the Lord is thy shade upon thy right hand.—Psalm 121:5.

There are many problems in life about which we cannot turn even to our most intimate friends and relatives. But we can always turn to God, the Father, and Christ, the Son, about any matter that troubles us, for they are always approachable through prayer. These "meditations" are only a tiny portion of the resources of God that are yours for the taking. Further daily Bible reading and prayer is urgently recommended to everyone.

Gracious and loving Heavenly Father, help us to understand Thy Willingness and ability to help us in all things. In Christ's name we pray. Amen.

AT FORSYTHE PARK

Big Attendance Recorded At Special Day Camp Awards program Ceremonies

The second successful period of the Twin Cities Y.M.C.A.-Y.W.C.A. Day Camp was climaxed at 2 p.m., yesterday when approximately 253 parents and friends attended a special Parents' Day Program in Forsythe Park.

The best marksmen in riflery, archery, the best all around camping groups, the most improved campers and the most outstanding campers were all presented with awards.

Hugh Whatley and Jill Marx were selected as the most outstanding campers and were presented with first aid kits in recognition of this achievement by John O. Clay, president of the Y.M.C.A., and Mrs. John G. Lewis, "Y" team chairman.

Named as most improved boy camper was Smiley Roy Bonnette, who was presented with an award by the Rev. G. W. Pomeroy, member of the "Y" board of directors. Sharon Henderson was selected as the most improved girl camper, and was given an award by Mrs. James E. Walsworth, member of the Y.W.C.A. board of directors.

Eleven Groups

The boys day camp was divided into 11 different groups led by Counselors Terry White, George Fisher, George Forman, Deuel Smith, Herschel Abbott, Gary Futch, Pat Jackson, Ronald Spruell, Roger Black, Newt Caldwell, Johnny Emmmons, Junior Counselors were Harry McCullough, Larry McCullough, and Mike Riley. Program Assistants were Neil McDonald and Tommy Caldwell.

Charles Wilder served as assistant program director for boys and Bill Robinson was boys program director and boys aquatic director. Frank Webb served as assistant aquatic director for boys.

The girls day camp was divided into six different groups led by Counselors Judy Lane, Kay McCullough, Joy Goza, Jane Moore, Aliene Gunn and Sue Taylor.

Assistant Aquatic Directors for girls were Gay Demmay and Charlotte Bruscatto. Mrs. Mary Webster was girls assistant program director and Miss Bess Sharp served as girls program director. Charles A. Wood, Jr. was camp coordinator.

Counselor George Forman's group was chosen as the best boys camping group. Members of his group were Jimmy Alford, Steven Cahn, Johnny Cale, Freddie Cale, Buddy Dent, Buddy Miller, Steve Newman, Johnny Rugg, Bobby Sutton, Mike Weaver, and Ewing Brown.

Counselor Jane Moore's group was chosen as the best girls camping group. Members of her group were Sandra Brown, Janet Glenn, Judy Guin, Sharon Henderson, and Margaret Ann Hundley.

Others Listed

Boy's riflery awards were presented by Bobby Oliver to Michael Campbell, Lee Vanderpool, Mike Weaver, Bruce Gregg, Howard Atkins, Roddy Hundley, David Lee, Billy Walker, Johnny Henderson, John Bramlet and Don Giddings. Girls riflery awards were given by Mrs. B. L. Mulhearn to Ellen Pappas, Emmie Cason, Pam Clay, Llewellyn Roy, Sharon Cunningham and Sandra Brown.

Boy's archery awards were presented by Vernon O. McCoy to Jimmy Laudenheimer, Gill Kiper, Steven Newman, Bruce Gregg, Mike Clay, Jeff Stone, Vernon McCoy, Russell McCue, Robert Cavendish, George Bowles, and Charles Ackel.

Girls archery awards were given by Mrs. J. Norman Coon to Nancy Powell, Emmie Cason, Mary Lou Myatt, Mary Katherine McGuire, Barbara Kootz, and Janet Glenn.

Swimming awards were presented by Bill Robinson and Mrs. Mary Webster to the following campers: (Boys) — Minnow — David Crew, David Law, James Salisbury, Vince Tidwell, Gary Berry, Tommy Kinkead, Ewing Brown, Freddie Cale, Mike Weaver, Bobby Sutton, Jimmy Laudenheimer, Jeff Stone, Bill Walters, Byron Goynne, Frederic Breese, Tommy Billingsley, Russell McCue, Wayne Rader, John Clay, Mike Clay, Mike Strausser, Don Giddings, Freddie Manhart, Paul Marx, Terry Green, Buddy Carr, Howard Atkins, Jim Williams, Mac Brown, Bill McSherry, John Bramlet, Dick Marsh, Ric Gandy, Bruce Layburn, Edmund Brown, Robert McCue, Herman McGuire and Clayton McDonald.

(Girls) — FLYING FISH — Pamela Clay.

(Boys) — SHARK — Charles Williams, Don Giddings, and Billy Walker.

A crafts display of crafts made by the boys and girls in camp included Copperwork, sunburst mats, Indian bracelets.

Limited registrations for boys and girls are still available for the third, and fourth periods beginning July 15th. For reservations, call Twin Cities Y.M.C.A., FA 5-2353. The Twin Cities Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. are participating members in the United Givers Fund of Ouachita Parish.

Mississippi Has Big Wheat Crop

JACKSON, Miss., July 12 (AP) — weight; green peppers 3,400 pounds per acre; and watermelons 7,500 pounds per acre. The U.S. Department of Agriculture today forecast a record wheat crop for Mississippi — 4,050,000 well over the 1956 880,000 hundred-bushels this year.

"It would be slightly better than eight times the 504,000 bushels produced last year," said the Mississippi Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, "and over 10 times the 1946-55 average of 303,000 bushels."

The service said the increase resulted from greatly expanded acreage.

The outlook for other crops included:

Corn, 34,224,000 bushels, 13 per cent under the 1956 figure; oats, 14,079,000 bushels, 8 per cent under the 1956 figure but 46 per cent above the 10-year average; sweet on an adulatory charge in Appalpotatoes 1,040,000 hundredweight, achcola.

6TH LOSS IN ROW

Bums Slap Reds
With 3-1 Defeat

JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 12 (UP)—Gino Cimoli's triple on a 3-0 pitch by Johnny Klippstein in the eighth inning, drove in two runs to break a 1-1 tie and give the Brooklyn Dodgers a 3-1 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs at Roosevelt Stadium tonight.

It was the seventh straight loss for the Reds, their longest losing streak since early in the 1954 season.

Cimoli's game-winning blow gave Don Newcombe his ninth victory of the season. It was the 11th complete game in 18 starts for last year's 27-game winner. Newcombe held the Reds to five singles, did not walk a batter and struck out seven.

Hartack Insisting He Can Ride In Arlington Today

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
CHICAGO, July 12 (AP)—Spunky Bill Hartack, his body taped up like a mummy, jogged around Arlington Park's stable area today on a pony and insisted his injured back felt good enough for him to ride Iron Liege in tomorrow's $100,000 added Arlington Classic.

"As of now I feel pretty good and I am quite sure I'll ride in the classic," said the Calumet Farm contract rider who leads the nation's jockeys with 185 winners this year.

"I felt a little pain when I got on and off the pony," Hartack added. "But it wasn't bad at all when I was riding."

Jimmy Jones, Calumet trainer, said if Hartack wants to ride Iron Liege "he certainly can go ahead and do it."

Hartack was released from St. Joseph Hospital in nearby Elgin in the afternoon. He had been under treatment since Wednesday when he was thrown from his mount in a spectacular spill at Arlington Park. A "wing" on a vertebra in the small of his back was fractured.

At first, doctors thought the vertebra itself was broken and estimated he would be sidelined four months.

Iron Liege, coupled with Barbi-zon, a powerful Calumet entry, will be challenged in the classic mile by six other sprightly 3-year-olds.

Hartack will give his injury a thorough test in tomorrow's first race. He is to be aboard On Tour. If everything goes satisfactorily he insists he will be on Iron Liege, seeking his 28th stakes triumph of the season.

Meanwhile, the Calumet entry gained stronger backing after early morning workouts. Barbi-zon, the 2-year-old champion, turned in a 5/8 mile trial in a blazing :58.4.

He matched Citation's track record. Iron Liege breezed the distance in :59 and four-fifths.

Fred W. Hooper's Greek Game, winner of last year's Arlington and Washington Park futurities, is the classic darkhorse. In the recent seven furlongs Armour he was beaten in the final jump by Iron Liege.

Also figuring high are Mrs. Adele Rand's Clem, winner of the Shevlin and Withers Mile; and Louis Lee Haggin II's Manteau, son of Citation with impressive triumphs in the Domino and Ohio Derby.

Other nominees are Reverie Knoll farm's Jet Colonel, William S. Miller's Better Bee and Mrs. Thelma Ott's Ekaba.

Dedicate Has Favored Role In Monmouth

OCEANPORT, N.J., July 12 (AP)—Mrs. Jan Burke's Dedicate, with Eddie Arcaro replacing Bill Boland in the saddle, takes on eight rivals, including two who have beaten him this season, in the $100,000 added Monmouth Handicap tomorrow.

Nine horses were entered today for the season's richest race at Monmouth Park. The largest crowd of the season, about 30,000, is expected at the seashore track.

Dedicate, with Boland up, finished second to Traffic Judge in the Metropolitan Handicap and third behind Traffic Judge and Lofly Peak in the Suburban at Belmont Park.

Arcaro rode Traffic Judge to both victories and some observers thought Boland could have objected to his riding tactics in the Suburban. But Boland cleared Eddie of all blame.

Traffic Judge has been retired to stud and Dedicate's owner, apparently following the theory of "if you can't lick 'em, join 'em" obtained Arcaro to handle the colt in the Monmouth.

In addition to Lofly Peak, a former turf course runner who was only inches behind Traffic Judge in the Suburban, Third Brother has beaten Dedicate this season. That was in the Bowie Handicap but Dedicate reversed that decision in the $100,000 Campbell Memorial.

Lofly Peak is owned by C. Mahlon Kline and Third Brother by Christopher T. Chernery. Another strong contender is expected to be C. V. Whitney's Career Boy. Dedicate, top weighted at 124 pounds, is expected to go to the post an 8-5 favorite. Career Boy probably will be second choice at about 2-1 with Third Brother and Lofly Peak at 6-1. All three will carry 119 pounds.

The addition of Hal P. Headley's Altica, a lightly weighted filly, brought the field to nine after Mrs. C. U. Bay's Greek Spy and Christina Stable's Ricci Tavi were not entered.

The other probable starters are H. E. Jackson's Tick Tock, Mrs. J. A. Leone's Rockcastle, Santore's Hellast, and Maine Chance farm's Busher Fantasy.

Four States Represented In Semi Play

MOBILE, Ala., July 12 (AP)—Netters from four states advanced today to the men's semifinals of the Alabama state tennis tournament. They were the four top-seeded entries.

Wade Herren, Birmingham, seeded first, turned back Dick Smith, Livingston, Tex., seventh seeded, 6-0, 6-3.

Cal Dickson, Tampa, Fla., defeated Larry Caton, Pensacola, Fla., 6-1, 6-4; Henry Jungle, New Orleans, was pushed before eliminating Jack Stalon, St. Petersburg, Fla., 10-8, 4-6, 6-4; and Bill Farmer, Keesler Air Force Base, Miss., had little trouble with Don McDougal, Birmingham, 6-0, 6-1.

Dickson was seeded second, Caton eighth, Jungle third, Stalon sixth, and Farmer fourth.

Herren meets Farmer, and Dickson meets Jungle in the semifinals tomorrow, with the finals scheduled for Sunday.

Other results: Men's singles Third round Jungle defeated Jack Bryan, Tampa, 6-1, 6-3.

Men's doubles First round Harcourt Waters-Eli Tullis, New Orleans, defeated Bill Harcastle-Bob Harcastle, Atlanta, 6-1, 6-1.

Second round Herren-Jungle defeated Albert Hill-Ernest Cox, Mobile, 7-5, 6-1.

Women's singles First round Sylvia Bradley, Jackson, Miss., defeated Chris Ogden, Mobile, 6-0, 6-0.

Second round Carolyn Rogers, Shreveport, La., defeated Jennie Lemon, Dothan, Ala., 6-1, 6-2.

Carol Ann Vest, Jackson, Miss., defeated Gertrude Rumpas, Mobile, 6-3, 6-2.

RIVERS DEFENDS Qualifying For DeSiard's Club Tourney Opens

Qualifying begins today for the Bayou DeSiard Country Club championship, club pro Winnie Cole announced yesterday, and will continue through next Saturday, July 20.

Defending champion Jack Rivers will not be required to qualify, Cole said, and will take the number one spot. Along with Rivers, Bill Jones, Toby Bancroft, Roy and Clyde Nash, Robert Ewing, III, Al Gallagher and Wayne Woods, among others, are expected to be strong contenders for the championship.

Qualifying play will be in flights of 16 with the low 16 golfers making up the championship flight. First and second round matches will be played by Sunday night, July 23, and quarter and semi-finals by Sunday, August 4. The 36-hole finals are to be played by Sunday, August 11.

Boxers File Motion

NEW YORK, July 12 (UP)—The International Boxing club announced today it has filed a motion in federal court for a new trial on the anti-trust decision handed down June 24 by Judge Sylvester J. Ryan. Ryan ordered James D. Norris and Arthur M. Wirtz to sever all their connections with the Madison Square Garden Corporation. He also ordered them to dissolve the IBC of New York and the IBC of Illinois.

3-STROKE LEAD

Bayer Fires 64 In Canada Open

KITCHENER, Ont., July 12 (UP)—Giant George Bayer, golf's longest hitter, fired a dazzling seven-under-par 64 today to move three strokes in front of the pack after 54 holes of the Canadian Open golf championship with a three-round total of 202.

His 10-under-par total put the six-foot-four, 240-pounder three shots in front of chunky Bill Casper, Jr., Bonita, Calif., who has turned in rounds of 70-67-68-205.

Right in back of Casper with 206 was Masters champion Doug Ford while Joe Conrad had a 107. Strangely, Bayer, the biggest man in the tourney, equalled the competitive course record set only hours earlier by the smallest man in the field, 130-pound Tomski, who shot a 30-34-64.

The big difference, however, was that Bayer has put together his rounds of 70-66-64, while little Tomski had a 74 and 75 in his first two rounds.

Henry Ransom, the 46-year-old part-time pro, and Freddie Hawkins, El Paso, Tex., who were tied with Ford for the halfway lead at 136, both counted 72-5 today and were grouped at 208 with five others.

The fabulous Bayer, a former pro football player with the Washington Redskins and the University of Washington, said his that Bayer has put together his rounds of 70-66-64, while little Tomski had a 74 and 75 in his first two rounds.

Adcock Fitted With 'Walking Cast' For Leg

MILWAUKEE, July 12 (AP)—Joe Adcock, 220-pound Milwaukee Braves' first baseman who broke his right leg sliding into second base in a game against the Phillies here June 23, was fitted with a "walking cast" today.

Dr. Bruce Brewer, club physician, said Adcock probably would be able to discard his crutches sometime next week. He said the break is mending satisfactorily.

Brawlers Fined, Warned By NL President Giles

CINCINNATI, July 12 (AP)—Do-nights will be dealt with severely during fighting is not a part of baseball and not helpful to what President Warren C. Giles of the National League, said today after a recurrence of the incident. Hoak, who said afterward he Brooklyn-Cincinnati melee of last would "get Neal in the ball park or outside," was given a special warning by Giles.

"I feel impelled to advise you that any revival of the incident whether it be on the field or off the field will be considered a serious offense and dealt with accordingly," Giles told Hoak.

"You owe it to yourself and your club not to revive the incident," he said.

Telegrams to each of the four players most active in the fighting in the seventh inning last night also warned against any repeat performances.

"For your part in the melee at Ebbets Field last night you are fined the sum of $100, payable at the League office prior to game time July 17," Giles advised each man.

"Such actions are not a part of the game, are not helpful to what the game stands for, and are not to be engaged in. Any revival of the affair or repetition will be dealt with more severely."

A preliminary to the seventh-inning brawl, in which most of the players of both teams participated—either trying to break it up, or to protect their associates—occurred in the fifth inning.

Pitcher Sanchez and Gilliam collided on the first base line, as the Dodger was being tagged. The ball dropped out of Sanchez's hand.

In the seventh, Gilliam had to hit the dirt to get away from one of Sanchez's pitches. He then tried to bunt and tied into Sanchez as the Redleg hurler raced off the mound to field the ball, which went foul.

They both went down with arms and legs flailing. Just when it seemed that things had quieted, Neal clipped third baseman Hoak. Hoak went down but was up quickly and after the Brooklyn shortstop. Even after Neal was in the dugout, Hoak tried to get to him, but catcher players held him back. He declared he was hit from behind.

Hoak, Neal, Gilliam and Sanchez were thrown out of the game. The contest then proceeded in an orderly manner.

Jungwirth Shatters 1,500 Meters; Mile Looks Easy

VIENNA, July 12 (AP)—Stanislav Jungwirth, a pale, handsome Czechoslovakian distance runner, today smashed the world record for 1,500 meters and in effect ran the mile five full seconds under four minutes, long considered the absolute barrier.

Jungwirth's time for the 1,500 was 3:38.1. The listed world record is 3:40.6, held by Istvan Rozsvalgyi of Hungary. Only yesterday in Finland, Olavi Salsola did 3:40.2.

The Czechoslovak news agency TK reported that Jungwirth made his amazing record on the Houtska track near Prague in beautiful, clear summer weather.

His partial times were :54.9 for 100 meters (the equivalent of 440 yards), 1:54.2 for 800 meters (the equivalent of 880 yards), 2:24.5 for 1,000 meters, 2:43.4 for 1,200 meters (the equivalent of three-quarters of a mile) and 3:38.1 for 1,500 meters.

An idea of the blistering pace Jungwirth set may be gained from the fact that the world records are :45.2 for 400 meters, 1:45.7 for 800 meters, and 2:19 for 1,000 meters. There is no standard mark for 1,200 meters. However, :54.2 for 800 meters (or the half mile) would win most big time college track meets in the United States, and Jungwirth not only did this but kept on going for almost twice the distance.

Track experts reckon that by adding 17 seconds to the 1,500 meter time an equivalent time for the mile can be approximated. Under this computation Jungwirth's mark today would be equivalent to a mile in 3:55.1, as compared to John Landy's world record of 3:58.

Jungwirth is no newcomer to high speed distance running. At the Olympic games in Melbourne he finished sixth in probably the greatest of all 1,500 meter races, won by Ron Delany of Villanova and Ireland in 3:41.2. Jungwirth was timed in 3:42.6.

Jungwirth's terrific time came only 24 hours after three comparatively unknown Finnish runners all raced under the 1,500 meter world mark at Aho, Finland, the famous track where Landy set the present world mile mark.

Olavi Salsola did 3:40.2, Olav Sanoen did the same time but was placed second, and Olavi Vuori-ala did 3:40.3.

When Roger Bannister first cracked the four-minute barrier of the mile with a mark of 3:59.4 on May 6, 1954, it was freely predicted that there would soon be a lack of four minute milers. However, the attack on this and the comparable times in the 1,500 meters has been slow to generate but now nearly a score of men have gone the mile in four minutes or its equivalent. The first American to turn the trick was Don Bowden of the University of California, who did 3:58.7 on June 1 of this year.

Hoak, Neal, Gilliam and Sanchez were thrown out of the game. The contest then proceeded in an orderly manner.

Ruston Legion Defeats West Monroe, 8-3

RUSTON, La., (Special) — The Ruston American Legion Junior baseball club, leader in the Fifth District at the close of the regular schedule Wednesday, opened the playoffs last night by dropping West Monroe, 8-3, here. The same clubs meet again in their best-of-three series tonight at 8 o'clock at Legion Memorial Stadium in Monroe.

Maxwell Green's 3-for-3 led a nine-hit attack for Ruston which iced the game away with a five-run fifth inning. The pitching of Charles Fuller, who fanned seven before getting help from Malone in the seventh, also was outstanding for Ruston.

Commission Will Act On Bid For Removing Depots

Two major utility cases concerning gas rates and railroad service in Northeast Louisiana are not expected to receive final consideration at the next Louisiana Public Service Commission hearing, Commissioner John J. McKeithen said yesterday.

He said a request by the Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. to remove their depots at Spencer in Union parish and Mangham in Richland would be acted on, however.

The Public Service Commission will meet in Baton Rouge, July 29-31, McKeithen said.

However, McKeithen said he felt the Commission is not prepared to act on a request by United Gas Corp. for increased rates in West Monroe and the outlying territory.

Action Unlikely

Nor did he feel Missouri Pacific's request to remove two passenger trains from the Arkansas-Louisiana line to Alexandria would be acted on.

"We have taken both cases under advisement and I'm sure the Commission will not announce its decision until we feel that all points have been justly considered," McKeithen stated.

United Gas applied to the Public Service Commission for a rate adjustment in West Monroe after the Supreme Court ruled the Commission has jurisdiction in the West Monroe case.

The Supreme Court ruled, however, that the Commission does not have jurisdiction in the Monroe case and United Gas applied for a hearing with city officials.

Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard said yesterday the corporation's request still is under advisement.

Session Requested

United Gas requested the session with the City Council to ask for a rate increase that complies with its proposed hike in West Monroe.

Both Missouri Pacific requests plus the United Gas - West Monroe case were aired before the Public Service Commission in a three-day hearing here two weeks ago.

The two trains under request by the company for removal travel through Morehouse parish, Ouachita, Caldwell, LaSalle and Grant parishes before reaching Alexandria.

Rehearsal Dinner At Oakley Home Honors Kelso-Smith Wedding Party In Setting Of Summer Blossoms

A rehearsal dinner honoring Miss Vera Smith and John Kelso, Jr., was given in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Oakley, Sr., at 305 Auburn Avenue at eight o'clock last evening. Co-hosting the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Day Oakley Jr.

The entrance and living room were handsomely decorated with white and pink caladium leaves, while the study was adorned with sprays of summer flowers in shades of yellow and gold.

In the dining room, where guests were seated at the main dining table and several smaller tables, were mass arrangements of pink roses and white stock interspersed with greenery.

Mrs. Henry Mayo Is Hostess At Terrace Party

The home of Mrs. Henry Mayo, decorated with summer blossoms in yellow, gold and henna, was the scene of a pleasant event yesterday when she entertained with a covered dish luncheon.

Upon arrival at ten o'clock in the morning, the guests were invited onto the terrace overlooking the bayou where they were served tall cool glasses of fruit drink and made movies during a conversational hour.

In the dining room, where the table was elegant with magnolia blossoms, surprise dishes brought by guests were uncovered and served buffet style.

The group attending, who met approximately twelve years ago and have lunched together regularly since, were Mrs. Cruseman, Gellotte, Mrs. Lonnie C. Mayo, Mrs. Henry Ray, Mrs. Johnny Adair, Mrs. W. O. Smith, Mrs. Joy Hanning, and the hostess, Mrs. Mayo. Six members of the group were unable to attend.

13 NLSC Students Make Brain List With Top Average

Thirteen students completed the spring semester at Northeast Louisiana State College with perfect scholastic averages, it has been announced.

They are: Sarah Balton, Lorene Denny, Wayne Elliott, Lynda Gear, George Hance, Danny Hoak, Dora Lee Kilpatrick, Shirley Lord, Inogene McDaniel, Joe Naff, Bobbie Savage, Jean Tucker, and Jim Wharton.

The list also showed sixty other students had averages above the 2.5 minimum honor roll requirement. Eighty-three students maintained averages above the 2.0 mark to gain nomination to the dean's list.

Miss Elizabeth Yerger, Fiancee Of Daniel Wray, Complimented With Seated Luncheon In Tallulah

TALLULAH — Miss Elizabeth Yerger, whose approaching wedding to Daniel Wray is of interest to many friends throughout northeast Louisiana, was delightfully complimented when Mrs. Fred Frazier and Mrs. Maurice Frazier entertained with a luncheon at the Old Southern Tea Room in Vicksburg.

A handsome silver candelabra formed the centerpiece for the long T shaped table and extending down the length of the table were garlands of summer flowers in shades of red, blue and pink. The honoree's place was marked by a large, white, bride's candle entwined with ivy. She and her mother were presented with carnation corsages by the hostesses.

Guests enjoying the delicious luncheon were Miss Yerger, her mother, Mrs. George Yerger, Jr., and grandmother, Mrs. George Yerger, Sr., Mrs. Daniel James, grandmother of the groom-to-be, Mrs. Elizabeth Snyder of Baton Rouge, Mrs. Carl Andre of Jackson, Miss., Miss Alma Everard of Chicago, Mrs. John Potts, of Monroe, Miss Dorothy Yerger, Mrs. James Frederick, Miss Carol Ann Causey, Miss Sherrill Sevier, Mrs. Donald Walker, Mrs. Ferdinand Andre, Mrs. Elmer Neill, Jr., Mrs. Charles Guinn, Mrs. R. L. Bailey Jr., Mrs. J. E. Neill, Mrs. Andrew Yerger, Mrs. Maxwell Yerger, Mrs. Edward Yerger, Mrs. R. N. Ware and Mrs. L. J. Kathana.

At the close of the luncheon the bride-elect was presented with a gift of silver in her chosen pattern.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Teen-Agers Should Not Be Left To Own Devices Without Supervision

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: Two years ago we moved out here from a city 1200 miles away. Our two teenagers hated to leave their life-long friends. They've made some acquaintances out here, but their hearts are still back there.

They've been pestering for six months to go back and spend the summer with this family who lived across the street. This week they received a written invitation from the parents. We are at a loss to know what to do.

These parents are much too easy going to suit us. They thought nothing of leaving an 11-year-old in charge of a house full of kids while they went off visiting or to the movies. The children never were fed meals, they just helped themselves all day long. Sleeping five and six to a room was considered O. K.

They were always getting sick or hurt because no one watched them. When we lived across the street and our children were there, I supervised, for my own peace of mind.

My husband and I have talked it over and we've decided it would be a terrible nervous strain on us if we let our children go.

If we say no, without explaining, they'll be bitterly resentful. Yet, how can we tell the youngsters our real objections? They'll never understand. — D. VAN

If your children are old enough to consider a 1200 mile trip, they are old enough to understand plain English.

Tell them exactly how you feel and why. They may not be happy about it, but deep down they'll know your judgment is sound and they'll respect you.

You'd be foolish to pack your children off and send them to the kind of home you describe. Teen-agers should not be left to their own devices, night and day without adult supervision.

It's your obligation as parents to decide what is best for your children and then stick to it. When you knuckle under and give in to their pleading, you fail them, and yourselves.

Dear Ann: I've been going with a girl for three years. I'll call her Betty. She is 24 years of age and I am 28. Whenever I get on the subject of marriage she tells me she's not ready to settle down.

There doesn't seem to be anyone else in her life so I know it's not that. She has two older sisters who aren't married and have no prospects in sight that I can see. Do you think this may have something to do with it?

She comes from an old-fashioned family and I'm afraid this could hold up the works for another ten years. If you have any advice I'd like to have it. — Swingin' Sam

Sit down with Betty (I'll call her that, too) and have a good old-fashioned heart-to-heart. Tell her to make up her mind whether or not she wants to marry you — yes or no. If the answer is yes, ask her to set the date. But don't go for any more stalling or you could be swingin' indefinitely. Sam. She may simply Monroe Girl Has Home Wedding At Crossett, Ark.

Word has been received of the wedding of Miss Fannie Lee Perry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Prentice Perry of Monroe, to Andrew Clark, at Crossett, Ark. The groom is the son of Mrs. Lonnie Clark and the late Mr. Clark of that city.

The ceremony was held in the home of the groom's sister, with the Rev. B. Head as officiant.

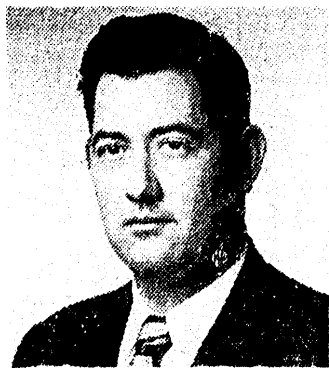

The bride was dressed in palest blue, fashioned with a fitted bodice, full skirt and wore white accessories. Her flowers were Colorado carnations in pure white, tied in white satin.

The reception was held immediately after the ceremony and was attended by the families and close friends of the young couple.

The brides' table wore a white cloth and was centered with the three tiered wedding confection. The ceremony and reception was attended by the families and close friends of the young couple.

Add a tablespoon of butter (melted) to piecrust mix and taste the benefits!

Pierian Club To Stress National Affairs In '58

Plans for the coming year have been completed by the Yearbook Committee of the Oak Ridge Pierian Club. "Democracy in Action" will keynote the program.

Mrs. A. B. Conner is secretary and chairman of this committee, and states that the program will stress national affairs. Starting with Mrs. Conner on the committee are Mrs. T. L. Smith, Mrs. Norman McDevine, Mrs. John Barr, as president of the club, and Mrs. J. W. Barham as program chairman.

In September, the group will take on the study of the League of Women Voters as a study of the club will discuss the League of Women Voters, and in November the club will discuss the General Federation of Women's Clubs and their part in the development of the world. The study will be the topic for the December meeting and the group will be an area minister.

As is customary, the January meeting will be devoted to the business of the year and the election of officers. The February meeting will be on service clubs and a member of the Lions International Club will talk to the group. Your Honor's Estate will be the topic of study for March and a representative of the Citizens Council will report on the Pierians. The American Legion will provide the speaker for the April meeting and address the club on the subject of "The Future of the Nation." In May the Daughters of the American Revolution will have charge of the program, and the topic will be National Defense and Historical Preservation.

Add crushed pineapple, drained, and a little orange juice and rind, along with butter or margarine, to make a delicious appetizer. Spoon the pineapple mixture into scooped out orange halves, buttered.

WHY GROW OLD

For Best Posture, Stretch, To Strengthen Your Back Muscles

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
 If we could see what happens inside our bodies when we have poor posture, we would be more than a little shocked. Lower trunk, arms and shoulders about the manner in which head to the floor. Continue.

Actually, some muscles become shortened while others actually become expert at the other two are stretched and weakened. This is across a chair, with your arms at impossible for them to remain on the seat of the chair. Do this work of keeping us in shape: your arms, head, trunk and legs. We must stretch shortened muscles and strengthen weak ones. You can assume correct posture. Round shoulders and a Dowager's Hump often are the results of poor carriage. Today I would like to give you a few exercises which are splendid for strengthening weak back muscles and correcting round shoulders and Dowager's Hump.

1. Lie on the floor on your stomach, with your arms and head have a tendency to slump. It is resting on the floor. Arch your back, lifting your legs, head and arms as far from the floor as possible. Keep your legs straight. Return to the floor. You may not exercises for the back, send a note to get very far from the slumped, self-addressed envelope. "Back Talk" No. 16. The Hart Family Stages Reunion At Transylvania

TRANSYLVANIA — Members of the Hart family gathered recently at the W. T. Hart home for a reunion. The all-day event drew folks from far and near for the day of remembering and renewal of family ties.

A plantation barbecue dinner was served to the assembled guests. Attending were Mrs. Thomas Beck with Karen, Pat and Derry Washam; Mr. and Mrs. Le-dell Fatheree, Douglas Fatheree and Douglas, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hart and George, Mrs. Dora Goff, Eunice Mae Hart, Clayton Hart, Judy and Shirley Fletcher, Mr. and Mrs. Troyce Dukes, with Johnny, Brenda and Lynn, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Hart and Mary, Mr. and Mrs. Wright Graves with Connie, Delia and Ina Jean, all of Transylvania.

From neighboring Tallulah came the Leon Harts with Donny, Steve and Leon, Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Murray J. Washam with Vicki and Barry, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hopkins with Mary Lou, Carrie Sue, Elizabeth, Wanda and Debra.

From afar came Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Allison with Lynn, Beth and Mary Ellen of Columbus, Indiana; William Roy with Bill and LeJuana of Calhoun, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Parker with Tommy, Gene, Steve, Lana Faye and Don of Starr, Mrs. Hattie Bennett with Don and Ann, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Bennett with Kathie Jenette also of Starr.

Printing Keeps 72-Year-Young Woman Active

With customers as far away as Honolulu, the printing future looks good to 72-year-old Alice Kennedy of Spokane who operates a "pocket-size" print shop and sets most of her own type.

At an age when most people have retired from active life, Miss Alice maintains she'll print as long as she can.

A petite, five-foot-two, inches, Alice does job printing of all kinds, from memorandum pads and report cards to wedding invitations and calling cards.

Sporting a green visor, she often works ten or eleven hours a day in the shop.

Her widowed sister, Mrs. Catherine McSweeney, acts as file clerk, answers the telephone and helps with the deliveries.

Started at 14
 "I'm not much 44 at this business," said 72-year-old Alice. "I keep house and cook for us, but around here I'm more of a printer's devil."

Alice began her career when she was 14 years old by working after school for 50 cents a week for a small-town newspaper in Winslow, Arizona.

"I set type on a simplex machine there," she recalled. "There weren't too many things a girl could do then. You could either work for a printer or a photographer."

In 1909 she came to Spokane and had a job two hours after she arrived, printing extra election cards for a politician.

"I just worked for two days and then went into a print shop where any place else."

Mannerly Gloss On Children Has To Be Laid Day By Day Right In The Home

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDERD

It is when parents are away on vacation that their children's manners show up. How embarrassing it is for parents to bring children to a public table and have them wriggle constantly or jump down from their chairs, grab bread, spill water, talk loudly, throw rolls at each other and whine loudly because they don't want this or that being served to them.

Obviously you can't change children overnight — not even with threats that if they don't behave you'll never take them on a vacation again, or even bribes of what you are going to do if they act like nice, mannerly, little children and make you proud.

All of this groundwork has to be laid day by day right in the home. If there is any mannerly gloss on children it has been rubbed in by daily contact with persons who act in mannerly ways at the table, ask for services with a "please," and accept it with "thanks."

And it means the children have to keep their napkins on every day at home, for unless they do, they will act in public as if they never had seen a napkin before, let alone know what to do with it.

Most manners are just courteous consideration for others and that cannot be taught while you are whirling through the country stopping at a new restaurant at each meal. It has to begin in infancy with children seeing how parents act and trying to act like them.

Manners at the table are simply imitations of what others do and are more easily taught if children lose the privilege of sitting at the grownups' table unless they can comfort themselves in a mannerly way when there.

Exercise for Little Ones
 We can excuse small children if they grow restless during a long meal and need to be taken out for a short walk or provided with an interesting toy. But, from the fourth year and on, it is possible for children to sit still at meals and they should.

Moreover they should be given small enough portions on their plates so they will not be inclined to cram their mouths to finish all that is before them. They should wipe their mouths and fingers with their napkins and not surreptitiously with their sleeves.

And most of all they should not talk about the food, whether or

I stayed for a year," she said. "Pride In Work"

After that, she was the only woman in the printing department of a large firm in Spokane for thirteen years before she bought out her boss in 1930 and moved to a place of her own. Her shop is now in a walled-off portion of a warehouse.

Here are two small platen presses, a cutter, a stapling machine and thermograph and a machine that does raised printing.

"I used to dream of a large shop with automatic self-feeding presses," she said, "but handling is a skill that not many people know today."

The two sisters make deliveries in a grocery cart, taking the city bus or walking.

A woman who obviously takes pride in her work, Alice said she can't remember ever wanting to do anything else.

Lots of nice customers and a good business won't let you be idle, Alice said, adding:

"I feel more at home here than any place else."

not it pleases them. There will be another meal along within a few hours.

This training should begin early. Parents may play a game about going visiting, or traveling and thus acquaint the child with what is expected of him when others with less charity than his loving parents will be looking at and criticizing him, and his parents. They are the ones who will be blamed for his behavior. You and I both know that.

Having a tea party for a crowd? Serve tiny assorted tea sandwiches with small wedges of stuffed celery, green and black olives and sliced almonds. Sweet offerings should be tiny frosted cupcakes or fancy cookies that can be eaten out of hand.

Vegetable Cooking Tips
NEW YORK — (UP) — Add a little fresh lemon juice or vinegar to beets and cabbage to help them retain the red color. A little milk added to the cooking water will help retain the whiteness of cauliflower. Don't use baking soda with green vegetables. It destroys the nutrients, reports the United Fresh-Fruit and Vegetable Assn.

Baking apples? Put a dollop of butter in each cavity and fill with maple syrup.

So Now You Can Get Polka-Dot Paint In A Can

The impossible has at last happened! Now you can do your outdoor furniture in an enamel paint with polka-dot pattern. This new item is called "multi-colored" paint and is on the market now. The painted pieces may be washed clean in a jiffy, and will not be hurt by harsh abrasives. No priming coat is required on a clean surface.

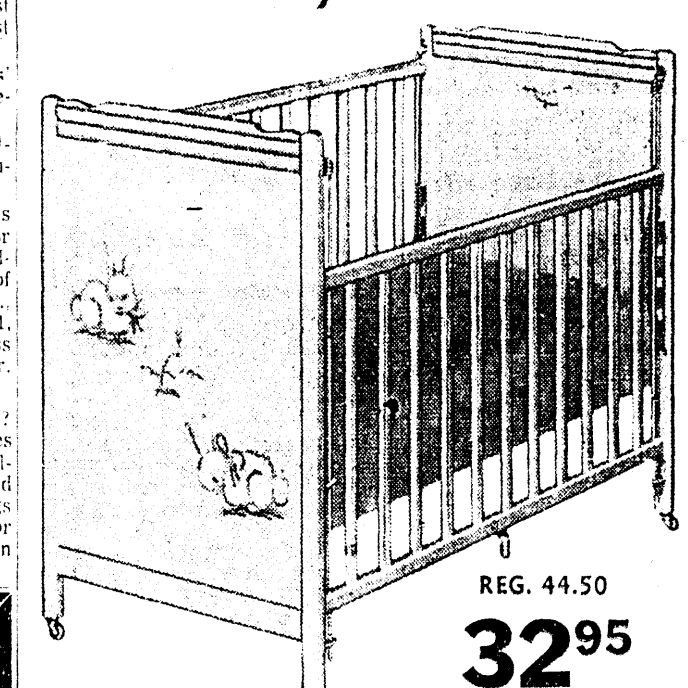

Pretty Table Manners
ST. LOUIS — (UP) — The good cook usually sets a pretty table. Members of the American Home Economics Association at their recent convention said the "dress up" table touch is good training for youngsters. They quote the axiom, families who eat nicely at home do the same when dining out.

If you're heating French bread, count on about 10 minutes in a moderate (350 degrees) oven.

Negro Rec Area

Purchased On

Lazarre Street

The city of West Monroe has secured nine acres of land near the foot of Lazarre street on the south side of town for use in the near future as a recreation area for Negroes.

Mayor J. Allen Norris who attended a meeting of the Tensas Basin Levee board in Rayville yesterday, stated the city was granted exclusive rights to the levee right-of-way portion of the property for recreational purposes upon guarantee the levee in the area would be kept mowed and undamaged.

John McCormick, West Monroe city attorney said this brings to a total of three the number of Negro playgrounds in West Monroe, the other two being on the north side off Lee street and near Boley High School.

Two white playgrounds have been operated by the city for the past seven years, though these have been in use for some years previously under the auspices of the service clubs and private benefactors, McCormick stated.

"We hope to have the playground for which we acquired the property yesterday in operation before this summer is over," said the attorney.

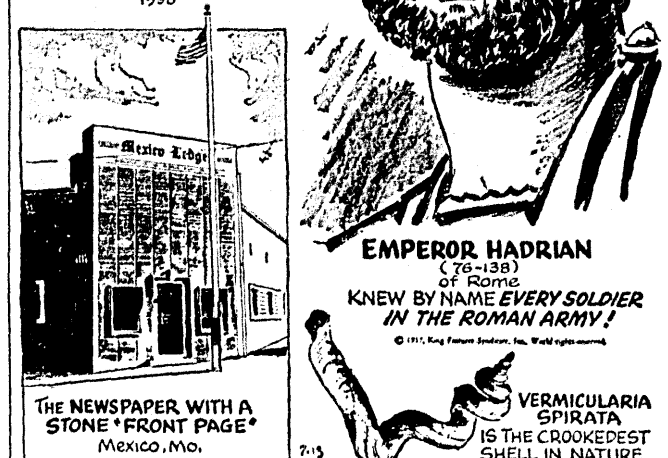

The new area was described as having approximately 1000 feet of river frontage, including adjoining property on a long-term lease from Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation.

West Monroe city recreation areas are operated by separate boards, Negro and white. "Each board is given money annually from the city budget to spend as it sees fit on the playgrounds," McCormick explained.

Ex-Convict Held For Slaying Of Woman Grocer

BATON ROUGE, July 12 (AP)—A 21-year-old ex-convict today was held for the robbery-slaying of Mrs. Grace N. McMills after police said he admitted entering her combination store-residence.

He was identified as Donald Wesley Harrison of Louisiana, Mo., released June 30 from Angola state penitentiary after serving 21 months on a crime against nature conviction.

Harrison told officers he was in the 57-year-old storekeeper's home last Monday night when she suffered a fatal heart attack, but denied attacking her or doing anything to bring on the attack.

A coroner's jury ruled the woman died of a heart attack brought on by physical assault or choking. She was found in her nightgown with finger marks on her face and throat.

Admitted Looking In Window
Detectives said Harrison admitted looking in the window and seeing Mrs. McMills getting ready for bed.

He entered the house through a rear window to make an indecent proposal, he told officers, adding that the woman "turned toward me as I got to the door and said, 'Get out of here.' She didn't scream."

"I got scared and started to turn away when I heard her say, 'Oh help me,'" Harrison said. "Then she fell across the bed and did not move."

NEW WARNING ISSUED

Icebox Ordinance Cited By Police

Monroe Chief of Police James C. Kelly, Jr., today issued a warning to persons who have allowed refrigerators and other "air tight boxes" to remain unattended with in reach of children. Such action, Chief Kelly pointed out, is a direct violation of a 1953 ordinance.

The chief of police said he has instructed members of the police department to again contact all merchants and other persons who might have ice boxes, refrigerators

Tour Of Towns In Madison Made

TALLULAH (Special) — A tour of Ward eight of Madison Parish this afternoon is scheduled by the retail merchants committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

Farmers and business men met at the Tallulah High School at 1:30 and visited crops and farming activities at the Hunters Bend, Sycamore Center communities and toured the Andrews school plant. The tour will culminate with a get-together with residents of the community when refreshments will be served by the Warsaw Home Demonstration club.

Informal talks were given by the business men and farmers of Ward 8 and door prizes were awarded.

Play Safe While You Drive!

Keep alert—chew gum

Avoid traffic jitters and driving drowsiness. Chew gum while you're behind the wheel. Chewing helps relieve strain and tension—helps keep you feeling fresh and alert for safer driving.

Chew any brand of gum you like but chew while you drive. Naturally, we recommend refreshing, delicious Wrigley's Spearmint Gum—for lively, satisfying flavor and real chewing enjoyment.

Strike Continues At Ethyl Corp. Plant In Baton Rouge

BATON ROUGE, July 12 (UP)—United Mine Workers pickets marched in front of the Ethyl Corp. for the third day today, and a second union voted to continue to respect the picket line.

A company spokesman said no new negotiations were scheduled in the dispute over manpower assignments in the tetra-ethyl lead division. Union officials charged new cycle operations would mean layoffs, while the company denied the charge.

Some 2,250 members of UMW, District 50, Local 12,900 walked out Tuesday night.

The Allied Oil Workers Union voted to respect the picket line as individuals and their nearly 1,000 members walked out next day. Today they voted to continue that policy.

"This means we will continue to stay out," said a union spokesman.

District Judge Charles A. Holcombe yesterday signed a temporary restraining order against mass picketing after Ethyl attorneys said a human chain of pickets prevented nonstriking workers from entering the plant.

A company spokesman said all

Highlights From The Ticker Tape

Auto assemblies this week will climb to an estimated 112,000 cars as producers resumed work on a five-day basis. Such a total would be 32 per cent over last week when most plants worked only three days. Next week, Ford Motor Company's new Edsel Division will start turning out its medium-priced, 1958 passenger cars.

The Air Force cancelled further development work on the Navaho Intercontinental missile. It ascribed the step to the Pentagon's hold-the-line policy on military spending. Officials said the total value of contracts to be suspended is over $100 million. North American Aviation, which has done most of the development estimated it would have to lay off 10,000 employees of its California plants.

Union Carbide was charged by the Federal Trade Commission with violating the anti-merger law through its acquisition of Visking Corp., one of its major customers. There were reports A. C. Spork Plus Division of General Motors has received a $34 million contract from the Air Force to develop and produce the inertial guidance systems for the Thor Intermediate Range ballistic missile.

R. H. Macy's sales for the fiscal year ending August 3 are expected to be just under $450 million, compared with the prior years $398 million, said Donald Smiley, treasurer. Net is expected to be at least $3.35 a share, up from $3.07 a share, in fiscal 1956.

Net Income
Air Reduction Company's net income in the second quarter of 1957 fell to slightly less than $4 million, equal to about $1.06 or $1.07 a share, from $4,062,346, or $1.12 a share, in the like period last year, John A. Hill, president, said.

The Fairchild Aircraft Division announced it had been awarded a research and development contract by the Army Signal Corps for an undisclosed quantity of high speed surveillance drones. According to W. L. Landers, vice-president, the order totals approximately $12 million.

General cable should report first half 1957 earnings equal to between $2.20 and $2.30 a common share, J. R. MacDonald, president, said.

Bates Manufacturing announced it will recall 150 laid-off workers at its Hill Division cotton mill and resume large-scale production at the plant.

Purity Stores will report a decline in earnings for the first 24 weeks of 1957 compared with a year ago, but earnings for the entire year should be up, John R. Niven, chief executive officer and director, said.

General Cigar Company approved the proposed merger of its wholly-owned subsidiary, Jose Escalante and Company, into the parent company.

Cotton NEW YORK

NEW YORK, July 12 (U)—Cotton futures dropped sharply in late trading today. Final prices were $1.25 to $1.35 a bale lower.

Heavy liquidation touched off numerous stop-loss orders in distant 1958 months which led to the decline. The action there upset the 1957 crop positions.

The talk of new farm legislation this year came as a surprise since prices recently moved into a new seasonal high ground on the view that no action on a farm bill was likely until next year.

The talk in trade circles today centered on a reported meeting to be held by the House Agriculture Committee on Tuesday, with hopes held that some compromise measure might result, presumably aimed at lowering prices to make cotton more competitive. There was little trade buying in futures today to stem the selling side, with support credited mostly to short covering.
